ERIGMATIC

Characters.

BRING

labera rev Work, then new Impreliion of the old-

LONDON

Printed by B. Wood, for about

ENICHATICAL Cliniactors.

other than 1 Volk, then tow V Inquition of the old, u

Court of the Court

Andrew Latter of the

Ænigmaticall CHARACTERS.

The Character of a

T gives you the hint of Discourse, but discourses not; and is that in mass, which you may wire-draw to infinite. Tis more Seneca then Cicero, and speaks rather the Language of Oracles then Orators; every line a sentence, and every two a period. It sayes not dl, but all that it sayes is good, and like an Air in Musick, is full of closes, or still driving to'rds a close. Tis all matter and to the matter, and has nothing of superfluous or circumlection. Tis that in all writings which delighteth most, and the shame of voluminous Authors, that when men have read whole

E

E B

C fy O ne

ne

Y

ne

fp

que ca

w

191

Volumes over, they shad shink that onely worthy to be born away. The a journey where you see the end from the beginning, and pass it over without wearines. The amarket where you have fruit and flowers ready gathered, without climbing or going amongst thorns for them. In fine, 'tis the quintessence of speech, and that which the French call the Point of Spirit, because it penetrateth most: and in point of praise or dispraise that may be said of it, which was said of Brutus, Quiequid vult valde rult: Whatsoever it does it does thorowly.

Character 2.

Of an excellent Actor.

He is a delightful Protess, changing and transforming himself into what shapes he please. He puts off himself with his clothes, and never assumes himself agen (not so much as in the Tyring-house) till the Play be done. There is as much difference betwirt him and a common Actor, as betwirt a Ballad-finger

Characters.

ich

for ech.

c of d in

of

vult

ho-

and pes his

ior

lay

IXC

finger and an excellent Mulician , t'one onely mouthing it, whilft t'other attitly varies and modulates his voice; knowing all his graces even to how much breath he is to give to every fyllable. He has all the parts of an excellent Orator, (animating his words with speaking, and speech with action; his Anditors bein nor more forry then when he holds his peace. Yet even thên he is an excellent Actor fill not falling in his pare when he has done his speech, but with his looks and gesture main taining it Aill unto the heighthe magining age qued agir onely fpoke to him; fo as wholeever calls him a Player does him wrong ino man being less idle, nor more imployed then he, his whole life being nothing elfe but Action, with onely this difference from other men, that as what is a play to them is his bufiness, so what is their bufiness is but a play to him, 1021 01

ness your Coach wheeher you will ar no.

Beir Tour Heldfile and Lucifle, 10 rea Park

Bogfib moy a sid Cha earlight he mays your mire.

lows you like your fliddow.

han and a maile of the last of

Of an Importunate Vife anta

TB is the onely perfecuter of Ladies, and I I after the Ten, they hold him the greateft Perfecution He vifits them in their Chambers a nights (when they are going to bed) and a mornings o're they are up: nor can they be quiet in their Cloffets for him. No exense of business, sleep, nor taking physick, nor that ye are gone abroad (though you your felf thud tell him fo) can keep him out; no not a Guard of Smitz at door can do't, for he'l enter like a Witch by the chimney, or like a Spirit, the doors and windows thut; and t'were a miracle beyond the Irih Friers skill, to Exorcife, and call him out. And it he be thus troublesome at home, much more does he trouble them abroad, (where he thinks he has more liberty) for wherefoever you go, he follows you like your shadow, and crouds himself into your Coach whether you will or no. At Church he is your distraction, at Feasts and Recreations he mars your mirth, and every where he is your fickness and disease; so as a Physi-

Characters

Imagis cybems? I me shaif bluor on wair and the Good and wair sold be read by and the span of the control bow soon and besneval need by any the span of the control base span the control base span the control contro

and at-eir

an

Vo

ck,

or

or

ke nd II, be

e

13

L

If

c

e

Of an Eager Diffentant! 101 201

The has Scollarship enough (like an ignorant Conjurer) to raise Doubes, but not to lay them, and comes from breaking Priscians head to breaking yours. He thinks 'the brave to have his speech (like Damessa Armor) compos'd of several pieces, of Greek and Latine, when indeed 'tis onely cloathing Eloquence in Motley. He seeks Contention more then Truth, and you cannot do him a greater displeasure then to be of his opinion. He has too

B

Enigmaticall

soomuch Passion to have any Beason for what be faves, and beats and knows rad hot prefently, with thunder in his woice and lightning in his eyes: impatient of contratiction, and contradicting every one : to as Faith that removes mountains, can never remove him strong his opinion. From question of things he comes to quellion of names, and from thence to mife naming them, fo as by degrees attiaff be quite lofes himself, and the state of the question too. And fuch as these they are who have so rent the Church with their hot Difputations; and made the breach fo wide, as that which at first like North and South, was onely divided by an individual Line, becomes at last the whole Heavens distant, by their indiscreet going to the extremity of either Pole. O

The has See and enough like enignorane Control to saile Doubes, but nec of the them, and the mean of the counts the brave of the chart of the Danken Arnor) comrord of feet force the Danken Arnor) comwhen indeed a sare y clouding vioquence in when indeed a sare y clouding vioquence in thouler. He is Control to more then 30

VOI

tw

ch

fe fa

fi

Characters.

Character 7.

Of a Dutch Waggoner.

TE converses so much with beafts as he is become one himself, with onely this difference, that he is a healf Paramount and to fee him mounted on his fore Horfe like a Drill, you'd take him for a Cart-Centaure ; or beaft two stories high. Nay, to his very understanding he is one; he understanding nothing above the Elevation of his Pole : And let chem talk of the Papifts what they will, there is none speaks the Language of the Beast but he. They were much out of their way, who feign'd a Waggoner in Heaven, when with far more reason they might have feign'd one in Hell: for he is more churlish then Charon, and more exacting money for his fare. fides, his Waggon is just like Hell, where people are crouded together in perpetual Torment, whilft he layes about him like a Fury with his whip. Onely in this he is like Phebus, or the Charioter of Heaven, in that he alwayes brings night with him to his journeys end. Nor has t'other (for all his twelve Houses)

hat

ntin

ti in the fa

10

i

Enigmaticall

Houses) so many Inns as he, to bait at on the way. Besides, he is more inexorable then the Sun; for Jestus with calling to him once, could make him stay, which you can never do him, though you should call your heart our for't. In fine, he is a very tyrant when he gets you in his Waggon once, and sets as many impositions on his passengers; amongst the rest he has one Tax call'd Drink-guest, which he sevies on the first four places in his Waggon; and were you forty he promises unto you all.

Now whether this be a Flemish or Holland Waggoner, there lies the Riddle; onely this looks bigger and keeps more state, as one who may be one of myn Heers in time, whilest tother will never be but one of the Rascal rout.

Cha-

ab

Characters.

Character 6.

Of an ordinary French Laquey.

HE is as mischievous all the year, as a Lon-don Prentice on Shrove-Tuseday, and is devillish valiant with his Rapier on, but a poor divel when it is off: and you may beat him (especially his Master) as far as Cent corps. de bafton comes to at any time. What colour foever his Livery is of , he wears mourning Linnen still, and he and the Dog lie together. and are Correlatives. He (wears and lies naturally, but steals nothing, onely all that he can lay hands on, and (if you lay not hands on him the fooner) runs away with it when he has done. Though for running it is the worst quality he has, in lieu of which he vantes up behinde the Coach as nimbly, and with as great facility, as an Ape or Tumbler behinde his mafter. For his Soul he has so little care of it, as he is alwayes giving it to the Devil and has so little care of his Body too, as he is alwayes running to the Burdello, till at last one running mars another, and he's laid up in an Hospital, and there's an end of him.

Cha

the

the ice, do

out

iny

he

gto

nd

îs

10 ft

al

Ænigmatical!

Character 7.

10

Of a Gamestress.

Made at Bruxelles.

COme fay the was born with Cards in her D hands, others that the will die fo , but remainly cis all ber life, and whether the fleeps ne wakes, the thinks of nothing lette. She speaks the language of the Game the playes aty better then the language of the Countrey where the was born, and can less endure a Soleoffme in that, then this, to She knows no lidge but the Groom. Porter, nor Law, but onely the Law o'th' Game; in which the is to expert as they appeal to her, as from fubordinate Judges to the fupremer ones. She loves Minter more then Summer, becanfe it affordi more Camesters; and Christmas more then any other time, because there is more Gaming then. She gives more willingly to the Butders, then poor Folks box; and is never more Retigious, then when the prayes that the may win a She imagines the is at play even when the is at Church, and takes her Beads for Counsers, her Prayer Book for Cards, and thinks the's fhuffling when the turns o're the leaves. And rivot the train what shill yeld bloom side find on the soul on the soul of the soul on the soul of the ps

he

ey

io ic

ri.

es

dà :

m

g

-

re

7

.

.

S

She is one your Cockneys call a Beauty, because like a fick Turkey she looks a little blewish about the gills, and has a faint white Complexion of the colour of fletten milk. She has no advantage of a brown Countrey Las, but onely that her complexion is the unwholesomer of the two, and her skin apter to break forth in scabs. She is so dough-bake't, and her complexion so raw, as those who have any minde to her, must have the Green sickness, or be half Cannibals at least, Her Blood is all whey, which she clarifies clarifies with phylick still, whence instead of Children the brings forth nothing but Curds and green Cheefes. She is alwayes complaining the knowes not wherefore, and would fain befick if the knew of what; giving that Phyficial more who findes her out z Difeate, then others would do thôse who cured them of one. She longs still whether she be with Childe or no, and her chiefest longing is after every new Fashion; which she must have presently, or there starts up a new Disease; and her Hufband gives it her, finding by dear experience, the Mercers Book far less chargeable then the Pothecaries or Phylicians : fo betwixt her being fick and well, he is dever quiet with her, nor will the ever be fo, until the be in her grave.

T

It

60

y

(1) ie is one your Ceckneys eil a Beathy we because like a lick Turier is clooks a lick to be demine a faint you be with about the gills, ead has a faint white Completion of the colour of fletten and. She has no advantage of a bound Constitution Lass, that are one that her completion is suit appear to beta a forth in face. She is fit done in back to an her completion to raw, as done in back to sail her completion to raw, as the party of the completion to raw, as the party of the completion to raw, as the party in the completion to raw, as the party of the condition of the completion of the condition of the cond

d of ards ain-

hyhen

or

ew

or

uf-

e,

be

g

or

N

Calendar of the Months and Diver when el Veral Merts. October Character of the Control as devonity as the Koman Cathelish do when

Of a Curious Glutton.

He total fum of his life is in his Bill of Fare, and he thinks all Salomons wildom confifted in nothing elfe, (he knew the nature of all Fish . Beasts and Fowl, and Herbs. Trees and Plants fo well.) He counts the Italian the onely wife Nation for faring fo delicionfly as they do, and calling a Wife man buom de buon gufte, or one that has a good tafte of things. He undertakes to tell you not onely what you should eat and drink, but also how you shud ear and drink it too; and is ready to fnatch his Ruffs and Goodwits out of your mouth, when he fees you swallow them greedily and ravenously; and is mad if you drink not his Verdea or Frontinack as chickens do their water, with often lifting up your eyes to Heaven. For the rest he is of a good nature and quiet disposition, hating all disputer, fince there is no Diffute of Taftes; and for disputes of Religion, so they allow but of eating and drinking, he is indifferent for any one His chiefelt Religion confifts in keeping a Calendar

Enigmaticall

194

Calendar of the Moneths and Dayes when feveral Meats come in feating, which he observes as devoutly as the Roman Catholicks do their Calendar of Saints. In fine, he thinks of nothing else as long as he lives, and when he dyes, onely regrets that Funeral Feasts are quite left off; else he should have the pleasure of one Feast more (in imagination at least) even after death; which he can't indure to hear of, onely because they say, there is no eating nor drinking in the other world.

Character 10.

Of a Gallant French Monfieur.

Made at Paris.

Behold this gallant Hermophrodies, in the Chamber more effeminate then Woman, and in the Field more masculine then Man. It is he who has so improved Gallantry, as it signifies not onely bravery in Clothes, but in Language, Manners, and Behaviour too. Herites a morning, and having spent some two Tour grace way:

Douvery his ilife, not

or th

ward

flead

toife

Mift

ers;

he fa

he w

when

Characters.

or three hours in dreffing himfelf, goes afterwards to the Church of Gallantry, where inflead of his Prayer Book, our goes his Tortoile Combe, whilst the little whilper to his Mistris supplies the place of Jaculatory prayers; and for one Pater noster he sayes to God, he sayes ten Miserere's to her. Mass done, he waits upon her to her Coach, then home where he dines ; fo as he makes his Body ferve his Spirits, and not his Spirits his Body. After dinner he dreffes himfelf agen for the Tour a la mode, where he falutes with good grace, and has the jolly rencounters on the way: Then to the Ball, where he utters fuch Douceurs and delicate Conceits, as 'cis a very Banquer for Ladies ears. Thus baving his Diarium, you have the whole course of his life, till he be old, if fome Duel or Difease do not interrupt it whilft he is young.

.

Enigmaticall

Character 11.

of a Dairy.

Made in Bedfordfbire, Anne 1664.

entrop her to her Coach, then beine Hou that of Milk the name doft bear, And Bourn sof water flowing there; And dost me with thy Name invite, Of low and humble things to write: Thy Dairy and thy Pastures fat, I'le onely chuse to celebrate Let others celebrate the while Thy Parks, and Woods, and Stately Pile a Such high things ask a higher strain, More low befits my lowly vain. In thy forich and fertile Ground, There so much plenty does abound, You'd think fair Amalthea's horn From fruitful Architer corn, Some God did from next River tear, And with like Bounty place it here. From this Rich fource, that Milk does come, Which when the Cow does bring it home, As Bees do Honey to the hive, In Cheefe and Butter they contrive:

And

And Nig And The

Mo Infi

Did Wh Is o And But

War With

(Fra

And Asi Shu

As In I

To The

Th

Chanadlerin

And flud (as anciently) fome Fairs but nist of Nightly come and baling the Dairyon a gaid to VI And but fee how neat 'tis kept, The Shelves fo clean, the Floor fo fwept, Money shud in their shooes be laid. Instead of pinching of the Maid. How happy third we indicate be? Did all example take from Thee: Where all th' opposition that there is, Is onely in their making Cheefe And where there's no percuffion, But onely to make Butter come. Written austin ancient anti-Was their Religion, as their crime, With fome excuse we might aflow, sans a Had they alone Ader dahe Cois, 1911 (From which fuch pleanedow good duce woiler); And lee their other Buelts alone sink to retnin From this comes Butter, Milk and Cheefe, b'is And Whey ighd Curds for white from the fourth As t'wood the Milkie Way a ppear, ile gaid on Shud Gods took downand feeus here has bna more grievous then ignation and blothet aw A In looking upwards cooke Skyling add caraces And modest any educous tares around many regard To know why the are more white and fair, my Then ever Milk or Climbs were yet, see 1 19 29. That from their Ladies hands they get ; well

Enigmatical!

Teles Shelves to clean, the Elin

So fair and white, we well may fays) but here Nothing's more white and pure then they had.

Character 12, 17 to be sid, the Character 12, 17 to bank below below the company to the company

Dol all example take from Thee:
Where all the opposed Mario or is, we
Is analytist less and ing Cherles

To the Tady and enal when and Written ar Bruxelles in French. ('an'a.)

A Blence, is the ablembe or bitternels of Love, that wears in from the delightful pressure of those we love; 'tis the night and, winter of Amity: When our Sun being set, or recir'd inscribother Hemisbere, we are sad, and residely long for its return; and if Death be nothing else, but onely a separation of Soul and Body a there extrainly wo'd be worse and more grievous then Death it self; since it separates the Soul even from the Soul; but that fortior quan more disesse; As Low has power over Death, so Time and Place has no power over Love. Tis the touch-from and trial of our Loves; and when in presence of those we love,

we

fem

on

Ye

do

dis

rio.

a

91

to

-

-19

bhr

1400 box

-9

1

tra

we are albejor to took orichemy and in the fents, all thought to think on them; I the a figur ode: Eose is perfect and concluded to has when the Palmer havino more need too look on the Original, tis a figure the Bidure is fully finishedy Yet Dow is facts willing, as without recouche ingsic often on the original, the feet ies and colours of it are app to fade and vanish, and though Comerines the necessary so be ablent from those we tore, (that shey hay inigging they cannot live without as) we we are meven to be follong away dated let them know they eyes) en'd not be more reverenc'e notheboil din of However Malano to find be distince out its to the trials of to be pint to the lincolity and say who lives for as no Ermin can be purer, nor Angel in moreal field live more time than the, who of all Women living has onely former

Of the Same Lady.

d)

đ

ė.

đ

ıc

r

r

Byer was curious Beauty more wary of Jun or winde, nor frugal Bravery of contracting foot or flain, then she of the least breath of rumour, and preserving her fame

20

and betoke uncained and unblemified's never doing any chings without find examining, what will the people figit mor thirting a footowithe out first catefully looking onherd funtreads is by which wild executed in the feeting of there. the clearly theirs, that billneyer Russour be apy chough to speak ill syderies but living well and we need not care what is fays and however foul. and dirty the Warldin per we may walk clean enough, and busicarefully, pick out out was This makes her for admir'd and revereso'di an Bround leff (sit dit be feen by mortall eyes) cu'd not be more reverenc't nor admit'd to and this mines diem propose ter so a noble pattern for all ther fairerd Sex continience who lives fo, as no Ermin can be purer, nor Angel in mortal flesh live more spiritually then the, who of all Women living ha's onely found out the way of fropping Rumbar's mouth, and filencing Calumny and Detraction.

the fact Lines

There has emison it not more warp of conline of the fact that the on Bravery of conconding for or faith, then the or the last breath of saver, and processing her fame

Character 14dT

He Leboth al & rao Tife by, where the Ledies are dreft for the Ball, and the Mill une Affemble on hedamos font Pa ciertotopen le Bat, Bisdistel show me dansen un Bulier. Ceftian Mababi da Ponti Brate que tu mailaite (Marchaldize) in legerand to refli dade Buritere Buidique ociet un The des Carles dinhardes Valche Jano spins en grift une con editte dien Alenge diamathan aber it figur ale element Outladest, Ocean try primiter of me fair trai defehange the few was your stomer place and umpels.on Cleft an Olet hus a denninhamichiens emplaining and the state Bifoilles deventer gran datio), retion it y arter Commenter entre le roft coft ino Trampho on les Vainens aufil bien que les Vainqueurs vont en obaviet deff une Medaille de la vanité du monde, & vicifitade des mondatins avec cor Inferiprions fice tranfie gloris mandi de farest aniers fretaque un en fon cours En for boff to out on route doucement dans le mondes & fin pouroit amfivaller en Parades on fernit aufi beureux qu' Elie.

4

由此社会以

H

The fame in Familift.

THe Tour als mode is an Affembly, where the Ladies are dreft for the Ball, and the Morfredapenthe Baler sideic & Pais or Mickey where they collett all their best commodities and keep the rell behinde in the Ware-houses: Tis a Game at Cards where all the Falestare difearled. The a well-order it Battle, where they shoot nothing but Glawers and wherethe first work discharging give phace to those who sollow. Tie a Heaven or Lirmamene, with two contrary motions, where there are Stay of feveral magnitudes, and where shere are fome Commerce Conquered as well as the Conquerours ride in Cherior: Tie a Meddal of the Venity of the Worldy and Vicifitude of worldly chings with this Infcription on cope fide; fis travfit gloria mundi, and every one in his turn on tocher. In fine, tis there where people side pleafantly and eafily in the world; and if they could go to Hearen fo, they would be as happy as Elias. bufi henvene on Lie.

Chambers

home, and Coach abroad) having Lore more for ornamen King Tallared On the more colonium for the large that the large he cales as the eas others do, and others the ash of the ring of a little ash of the ring of a little ash of the calmon for the calmon for

c

A STREET ON BUILDING STREET

Bis Native of Bolonia, though of no Percat House there and is his Ladies Pa yourite, and the envy of all her Gallancs, for his lying with her anights, and killing her be day; and they suspect him of frigidity, that he's no more mov'd with it; certainly he is fo cold, the Chimney-corner can scarce keep him warm, where he lies in his Pannier, like Diegenes in his Tub; and you would take him for a Cynick, by his barking at every one. By his Collar you would think him of fome Military Order, (as there are Carper Knights enow, who wed willingly like him be never our of Ladies Laps) but that he ha's no fellow for dittleness, all other Dogs feeming Man flives compar'd to him and he wo'd fraree pais for one amongst the Pignits, though in HamerseBattle betweet the Frogs and Mice, he miglie have ferv'd for prounting the Cavalry, if he had not been marred in the mannaging he (what betwise carrying in the Arms ac home. leg!ons

Tes

Bi

W

all

cia

eh

to di

Be Gir

be

-

gi

ci

m

to

B

24

home, and Coach abroad) having Legs more for ornament then use: Whence he ha's much to answer for idleness, but for that he cares as little as others do, and others as little as he, so they may have like him, when I leaven in this world; and have a Velvet Cushion for Couch a walk on Turkey Campers like the Grand Signory, and be sed as damaily as the Infance of King of Spans whill be can't mag his tail for any things but he ha's damaily as the sed and san your himself to mind for any chings have he ha's damaily as the sed and san your san

Adams mord with a constitute to the sold, the Chamery-corner can farce keep hind warm, where & The The hard and his this of a bold obusive With a bold

The teles madly, it also defin, without any fear at all, and cares not how he before core others or defiles himself, nor edates he till he strun himself quice out of breach, when no monder if to Feels he feems to get there of those who carefully pick out their way, and are as fearful of abusing actions as themselves. He has the Suffeen's priviledge, on the bed do any thing without exceptions; and before lealous

(Characteric

re

ch

85

in

or

R

13

(No

3

.

1

Jealous man, Cuckeld, a Childe of doubeful Birth, Baftard and a Lady of Capeded honour. Whore; whilly they onely laugh at it; and all Schollars are Pedants with him, and Physicians Quade When the being angry at it, were the avowing it. In Ladies Chambers he is tude, and tumbles the bed, and toward then. dreft up anto the height to the hazzard of Bot flaff thrown so his heady or less of withe fingers with the Bush, (and that is all.)" Onely be is worfe then the Buffeen in this, that they fludy to delight, he onely to offerid, shepled make your merey, he onely to make you mad giving that torreason of this incivility; wearfa it transles you (forfooth) which wod make any civil mah reale croubling you : So he ware his wices Brand's do their Swords, pilety to mischief and offend others, not as Gentlemen to defend themselves and tis crime in hims what is ornament in them; he being onely a wie se that; se which a good Wir is onely a Fool. And thus he continues ; till he meets with fome grother as chollerick as be issubafive, when afcard of a bearing, he goes away and fayed, obey ander fland nor Joft, when indeed rime the ignorance of what he wind reduction people more vertuous tien the resting at his

Cha-

mot fort

Hin

200 nad

nee

the

.no

4501 do

Ser.

20.35

den:

100

-103

hm

wine:

T

bec

Healous man, Carloide a Childe of doubeful bo (Erch, Baftard To Tharard Sed benour, rail Schollars are redant with his and Physi-form Cu Hin anshom and Oat it, were Rine avowing it. In Ladies Chambers he is

To Es your onely Confeience monger, and fremes it wide or frait pas be lifts binfelf, be leaves no Ujury, whilft he makes oll Disters , and takes away the fine of the world but makes more finners then there were before, He has his feveral wards for feveral fins, as Equivocation against lying, and fecree recompensation against these, for edifying the Confeience, as he can fet it right agen at any times He can make any thing good with a diftioction, and marre it again with another efpecially, he has particular cases for Princeso in confidence of which shud shep offer to go to Heaven, St. Peter is chought wod hardly allow of them, (as Scholaftical Querks invented fince his time.) Amongst the rolt, he is fo pactial to his own Countrey Vices, as Druny beanefe with the Dutch is almost no vice at all, port Fornication with the Spaniers mean time the ignorance of what he writes makes people more vertuous then the reading it; his ChaLY

No

STI I

01

3

di

3 à

1

t

e

a ø

ď

rede

none

his Writingscheing nothingielle but a Raps fody of all Vices in general, whence cocome quently by reading them particular periods mift needs know more vices them they did be fore; and for him himself for all his nice di Ainctions woe be to himidifowheh bendones the dyes he meets with fome fuch ignorant Des vitas that Lawyer did, who a not make him understand him for his heart , but hew word needs carry him away to Holl whether he a Gentleman, as he can't endure on his w lerv'd. like ones Mean time down to the Churches .. and Winehall thud follow con. might they but have their wise; a loarn like Sauten) ferving them infend both of Church hog sol Character 18. good enough for their recepting, who teach of an Anabaptift or Fifth Mon the comingn Goal . He calle Mirch Repphanes THE ZHen in the Lords Prayer he faves W The King dom come the equivocates and means his own, looking upon Magistrates but Winepers of his Right i he is a Saint turn's infide outwards, or all Sanding without, and

mand within all his ni Congregation an however they boalt the Spirit; are all in Quispo , and their mic not other Cloak but ducty Hyperafies eid lquestion whether he more tistes the Church for Gereindhies y or Gereinbnies for the Church but for him he is more familiar with the Lordy then to Mand on Ceremonies with him sher Thomag him at every wordland speake ing with less reverence to him, hhen any Cloud des tol hier Landlord | hersto hates a Gentleman, as he can't endure Gad Shind be ferv'd like one: Mean time down go the Churches, and Whitehall shud follow too, might they but have their wills; a Barn (like Savages) ferving them instead both of Church and Palace, Othey counting any place good chir enough to preach in; and any place indeed is find nothing but Sedition and Infacuation; and win whilst others with their Sermons people Hear' 'wen, they with theirs onely people Bedlam and her the common Goal. He calls Mirth Prophaned hen nefs Melanchulfi Godlinefs, Obediehre Links of wannersy and Faction Zeal minaking as and orne christian work with the day with Baptising her their Children and scall himtelf page 4 file any him, who over head and lears in direct boutted out that led none

Gov

des

YB'

.

000

99

366

ben

S

S Chanattens

for ich

aliv

my.

be

he 0, kq

ch

bc

is

di

64 di

70

10 9

ıc

that he had never a fpor on him d fo heahan God wish she Pharifes that he is not like other men, and in that he layer are, for he is far the brings forth nothing but spats and sold sign Rever travels without her backet full of Prowas or built Stivers worth of Shrimps or Minth with eracking and nibbling of which (befides her tatling) the preparation of the week, and when the comes home puts up every thing inta Preis, her found, and chule, and felt too when the good action Lutche Litore and and w thing forme I, abuniful entrafishir Gloves, but the has dern'd over twoney times at least; and Of is is need and cleanly in her House) but not in herfelf, and to frugal in the Kits ding the if there be any Goals, Kitching finff, or Candles ends, ristuite rel go co poby there is no entring any of her other Rooms Without first purcing off your Shopes, at an were buly, Ground , and yad better fpic in her face thert fpic in't, while you are there's hen Tongs and Fire-thovet, with all the reff of her Chimney implements feive more fois ornament then side o and slow may alloom hed her to fet fire on the house, as make a fire in any Chimney befides the Kitchin one ; for her own Chimney, 'tis under her Coats in her

Buigmaricall

110

30

512

-01

fto

wh

cal

1

Be

Pa

8F 80

cy

bi

OU

m hi

side of with which the to bemadkerels her Blight, as you'd take her for an Marmaid) half diffy half Heft; by which unnatural bear the brings forth nothing but Zouterking: She never travels without her basket full of Provant or half Stivers worth of Shrimps or Nuts; with cracking and nibbling of which (befides her tatling) the entertains her felf upon the way, and when the comes home, puts up every thing in a Prefs, her Band, and Huke, and felf too when the goes to bed. She housewives every thing fo well, as not a fear of her Gloves, but the has dern'd over twenty times at leaft; and fluis to great unlenemy to Superfluity, as he) Handkerchief wod fearce make a Plaifter fon het Note. There goes alwayes fome brancht velvers or cuff-tallity to the Stomacher of her Holiday Gown, and the filver Chain, with ath his appendices, must on on Sundayes, or the go couthe Lambard for it. In fine, the keeps the Hoofe or Shop all day, and at night her Husband and the drink lovingly together, titl they are Maudin-drunk, and then they go to had together, and theep like pigs on was althou herto fer fire on the house, as make a fire in any dismany believe the Kechin one; for her old Mitmey, deixender her Cours in her Lule

11 Characterica

bei

car sha

ro-

des

ing

00

out nd

9

4

De.

C.

itt

100

100

ner

943 B it well enough in him as knowing; that ber held wood so by the start of that disposition was there ever Flatterer of that disposition was

Of a strange Disposition.

TE is rather made of Oak then Willow, and will fooner break, then bow.) He counts stooping baseness, and except that civil respect which is due unto their place and titles, he cannot flatter or fawn on any man; but like their Mirours, the same countenance they shew him, be thewa them agen, and exceptionsh Prince, who can Sovereignly disposo of his Bady; and God, who can difficient, his Soul; and Body both, he cares for offending no hos dy who shall first have offended him; and mone; even looks to bigh on him, but he'd get & Plan bedirer or he'd look se high as thenel This gets him many enemics, and hinders him from getting many friends; for every one wod be romply'd with all, and he has not complacency for every one; not can he help it for cis his nature, and we can as eafily change our outward form and features; as our inward mind and disposition, (after by long accustoming tis past into nature once) and his friends like Animatical!

t well enough in him, as knowing, that of fuch wood your best Friends are lade, nor was there ever Flatterer of that disposition.

Of a Grange Difolion.

TE'is rether made of Cakeinen Willow, and eminorati Character 2 100 Hur L Hooping balenels, and except that civil refued ade, solvis hos socia sied of the with a their right Miroms, the fame countenance they fnew

The Bigges to Player onely to finde faute Till othere, and the findes none, he makes then, (like your filely flyer, who not onely leave found places, to light on fores, but are fuch venomens ones, as they even make found placenfore with their flys blowing them. In the Coffe-bonfe he is of the Poace and Quorum, and gravely fitting on the Bench there, (like Justice Clark) condemns first and examines afterwards ; but every where elfe, he is our of Commission, & as ridicatous as Cother is on the Stage, (they holding him for a Judge without Judgement, and Author without authority.) He is an Hererick in Poetry, (or Fanatick, which is worle) and is quite, fallen from the Faith of his

refe Pra Me

and

his Fore-fathers, who believ'd in the Porta Infallibility, and to Eletcher made the Play, was enough with them: But it Fletcher were alive now, or any man living writ like him, he a refold d to condemn him wholoe is he he, who praises the dead onely to dispraise the leving. Hean time he spends his judgement to fait on others, as he leaves none for himlelf at lengths and having all his Wit from Playes, spends it all in consuring them, to as its no longer, Judgement but Madocts in him, beyond the Cure of Rediam or Helipos.

But, why do I trouble my felf with deleribing him in Profe when its done already in Verley in Aniwer to a certain Language made against related and Pages, entituded, A sections of Access to the Access to the control of the contro

Their Names find to told as med as Projections to had they fold from the septement of the when they fee bus their faces behalf abole are they

The Answer.

A Seffions not of Apollo but Bacchus,
Was lately beld in a Coffee or Sack-houle,
Where all wed needs be Poets Dramatick,
Though none underflood nor the Theory nor Praffick;
D And

e i

h

2

.

f

è

6

1

s

Enigmaticall.

And thefe forfored with their little or to wies, Wed fit in Judgement of Player and of Poets, it by part sport that Player in the Stage and a series Have follow born the brant of Fanacical Rage, While out I the Pulpit, a part of the Cannons of Party Inanter's fact value of Railing I upon um; the fach at thefe in a Tavern mut fit, amit anot And arraign and condemn the Player and the Wir! How Tipes are chang'd In our fore fat Boy Hayes, Onety those who had Wit were Judges of Playes But every one now u a Confuter grown, nomboot And who were forward then those who have none? But to conclude with our grave I avern Benebers, Compard of riotons Gamefters and Wenchers, Of half-wiced Jeerers and Hellering Fighters, Unlefs they give over their confuring the Weitera, They't fortly repent it, when at their next Sefton's Their Names fhall be told at well as Professions ; And they fo deferib'd, as people Shall fay, When they fee but their faces, behold these are they.

Cha

4

De

231 tre

th

ch

C

on ter Ly

by bee

of one no Character 12 son brown

obsiming and deciating of the winde, but this and of a Complementer and the

He u d corfain cringing thing, that flows Just like a Tumbler when he vaults through hoops Or Dan of Magpye, when at fruit it pecks Alternately their tails above their books.

YI)

I I Bis the Rack of Conversation, that sets every ones Joynts a stretching, and hadibeen banisht Sparta, Infalliby, for adding so many superfluous words unto the Dialett, He is a Paritan in Manners, as others are in Religion, and troubles you more with his long Preambles, then c'othes with his long Graces; and in this is less conscionable then they, in using Ceremonies too, to make it more troublefome. The French has a good Etymology or derivation of his Name, and fayes, that a Complemenber is but an Acomply menteur, or an accomplishe Lyan; and they fay true for Complementing is but a new way of Lying, not directly, but by Circumfocucion and Truth has alwayes been out of fashion, fince it came in Tis a new Language added to those of Bubel , and wi

ed

78

tel

ou

B

Cli

in

W

th

fo

le

ny

bi

ď

ti

K

has brought a greater confusion into the world; for those were invented for better explaining and declaring of the minde, but this for hiding and concealing it. Tis the Court Cypher, that is sometimes to be understood course, or by contraries; sometimes prater, or besides, but never literally, and in the genuine sence. In fine, 'tis the Language of Flattery, Irony, or Hyperrise, wholly unknown to our honest Ancestours, nor shall we be ever so honest as they were, till we have quite left it offs.

constant Character 23.

and vases of perhips got velicial atoms? Tilling

purfluence words tage the prairie. Hersa Pa

Of a Make-bate, or sower of Dissension.

She is a tatling Goffip, and one of the Devils Day-Labourers, that fowes his Tares for him, or feed of difference. She cells you this and this such an one said of you, when you may be sure, 'tis either wholly salse, or never wholly the cr-

hîs

urt

bod

or ne

77,

our

fo

eft

u

ú

wholly true, (she having either wholly invented it, or added so much to it, as makes it an arrant Lye.) She goes a fifthing for fecrets, and tells you those of others, onely to book yours out of you, baiting men as they do fifes, one with another still. She chuses the foftest Breafts, as easiest to be corrupted, and those (like an infinuating worm) the wriggles her felf into, till the has quite corrupted them; the oyl with which the supples them, is Flattery, and that which the chiefly flatters, is others Kues; for Vertues, the thud be forry that they had any, left they flud be too vertuous for her company. In fine, they talk of Serpents fo venomous, as they infect and poylon with their very breaths, but if ever any's breaths were vende mous, 'tis hers, (who wod fet Man and Wife ar diffention the first day of their Marriage, and Childe and Parents the last day of their lives) Nor will innocence ever be fafe, or converfation innocent, till fuch as the be banisht humane fociety, (the bane of all Societies where they come) and if I could afford them being any where, it flud be onely with Ariofto's Difford amongst mine Enemier, mean time 'c shall be my prayer, God blefs my friends from them,

Cha-

Character 24.

Of a Chamber-maid.

A Chamber-waid by a certain Figure fignihes no Maid at all; as homo pictus, or a painted man does no man. She differs from the Waiting-Gentlewoman, as fingle Rofes do from double ones, and is a Maid of one Coat onely, whilft t'other has many; yet there is more provocation in her fingle Petticoat and Wastecoat, (as coming nigher Querpo) then cother bas in all her Gowns and Petricoats. She is like a Nettle, handle her gently, and the's angry, but towze her foundly, and the takes it patiently; onely she is coy and disdainful to the Servingmen, telling them, the is for their betters ; and fo the is indeed, for a Gentleman may do any thing with her, in a civil way. Above all, the is very ferviceable to her Mafter when her Lady lies in, who takes order to marry her the fooner for it. In fine, if the be a right Chamber-maid, and of the Game indeed, say what you will, or do what you will unto her, fhe'l be fure to be a Maid still , till fhe shool bandanH variesh, hadwis bairnam ad adli valon no ano ad adli in valon no ano ad adli in valon no ano ad adli in med. See. He has a Receipmon and banoi has and twenty at both lor an Agis, all one as another; and to peffers, you with hisvilits, as y'a e lon't to give the Phylician for his. In the contact of the co

Of troublesome Kindness.

Hen he meets you, he asks you with a great deal of joy, whether you be there or no? and chough you have never so much bufiness, makes you stay. He shakes you by the hand, till h'as shak't it out of joynt, and tells you twenty times, he's glad to fee you well; and if he embrace you, and get you in the hug, y'ad as good fall into the hands of a corash wrester. He is troublesome at Table, with hidding you hearsily welcome, and often drinking unto you, whilst he winks upon you without knowing wherefore himself, and carves you, and makes you car whether you will or now He asks you so often how you de? as he makes you doubt whether you be well or no.

Aniematical!

and when you are not indeed, the is more trough blefone yet, with his bow l'ye'r? and pray be well, &c. He ha's a Receipt for every Difeate, and twenty at least for an Ague, all one as good as another; and so peffers you with them, as you would give as much to be rid of his vifits, as y'are forc'e to give the Phyfician for his. In fine, he is fo troublesome, as y'are forc't to put it in your Letanies, to be deliver's from bim, and all will fcarcely do.

a diw no Character 25 . al I

Of your Town-talkers.

Made Anno 1654

Our Town-talkers are a company in Town, I who make a crade of talking of every thing and they are fuch excellent Embroidsvers of Lyes , as any ground will ferve their turn , (nay , most commonly they'l do't without any ground at all.) They deal more by Conjecture then Almanack-makers; and will venture the repute of Liars ewenty times, for that of Prophet once. They wish more for

XU

ill ner

rears

publi

hunt

full (

who

Mrs

fur fell

> T ill

> > ch

Characters.

ill news, then Ingreffers of Corn do for dear years; and are forry with Caligna, when no publick calamity happens in their times. They bunt with full cry, and sun fafter away with a Rumour, then a pack of Northern Hounds with a full (cent; and their chiefest Game is who, and who! They make more Marriages then Juftiis of Peace; and for Weddings, (now the Arches are down) they are the onely Bands Court. Inflead of the Star-chamber they cenfure every one, and judging of others by thenifelves; no wonder they judge ill of every thing: Their talking is their difeate, and they fpeak ill, because they know not to speak well. Tis the malignity of their nature, and we must have patience with it, as they must, if making bold fometimes with us in the Countrey, we this once make as bold with them in Town.

as a minist among or we can of adout how This

the constant of the constant constant of the c

Change and the control of the change and the change

di 15

Enigmaticall

on and Character 27

Of a shrewd old Catholick Gentlewoman.

THe goes to Confession, and leaves off all her old threwithness to begin anew ; and when the ha's fufficiently thumb'd over her Hours and Rofary, thinks the ha's priviledge to be as threwish as the was before. She chides others with the same zeal as she prayes; and beats her Breafts at Mais, and Maids afters Wards with the fame fervour and devotions She thinks spiritual Vices nothing, fo long as the abitains from carnal ones; and whillt the makes a mortal fin of eating Flesh on Fridayes, or Eggs in Lent, makes no scruple of rash judgement, and condemning others without a cause. Her Devotion in the Chappel chiefly confifts in faying over a great many Prayers, and out of it, in making a Caudle for the Goodman, which he eats as devoutly, and prays for Benefactors. In fine, the's alwayes chiding, and would have every one perfecter then her felf; and looks fo much to others faults, as fh'as

ly k twi fam

> ba kîn faw kn

05

eal.

but ſm ma fac ry

wl mo or th'as no leafure to look unto her own; whence the turns away her Maids to fast, as the fracely knows her own Family; and you thall come twice into the house, but never twice into die same house agen.

co 1900 Character 28.

eo

io d

14

d

r,

a

5

on leandam

Of a common Acquaintance.

He wearies out his bosome with embracing every one, and dirties his Palm with shaking them by the hand. Like a Spanniel, he saws upon every one he meets, and will needs know them whether they will or no. If they but look on him, he smiles on them; and but smile on him, and the Acquaintance straight is made. He picks acquaintance out of every sace he ha's but seen once before, and calls every one he ha's but seen twice, a friend. After which follows Kindred and Affinity, he having more Couzens then your common Curtizans, or Will Summers had; and they are much as near a kin as Patch and he, Mean time, he glories in the store of them, and thinks himfelf rich, never confidering, that one findes enow of fuch aequaintances every day in che Breets, whilft procul & de ultimis finibus terra. a Friend is a Cabinet-piece indeed, and one we should go to the end of the world to feek : Betwixt whom and fuch common Acquaincance there is as much difference, as betwixt Diamonds and Pebble flones : and he ought to be asham'd, that every ordinary Carver shu'd be more choice of the wood he makes his Statue's of, then he of the men whereof he makes his friends; one being too hard and knotty to work upon, t'other too light and foungy, and worth nothing when they are wrought. Non ex omni ligno fit Mercurio, one makes ago Friends out of every fort of Wood, of the Actual Carlot Series is left then ouce her bee and calle ene

Enigmaticall

hat his received co. a drickit.

helimos mor melt mos

wiede letter one militare

Asom one year has a factor

-010

Cha-

nu

W

w

of

ti

it:

fe

fa

Ь

ft

y k

Characters.

45

the hand a tien gently, as there had a be the control of the contr

es he

a,

7-

11 0

d

ĉ

Of one who falfely flyles hime

N TOrto be Souldier he was made Collonel at first, and to 'feape fighting ha's continued fo ever fince; whence he is a Superlative without a Positive : or like a Hovel, all Roof, without Foundation, He drunk formerly when he thu'd be fighting, and now talks onely of fighting in his drink, whence his Sword can fo little boaft of its Blood, as all its Gentility lies in the Hilt and Belt; and it derives its Honour more from the Scabbard then the Blade. To avoid fighting, he brags how often he ha's fought, and how many he ha's will'd; and fome believe him, becanse they cu'd never fee any he had fought withall alive: But others fay, that of all men living they wo'd chuse to be kill'd by him, for fo they fhu'd be fure to be still alive. Yet he'l quarrel, or wrangle with you, (which is half quarrelling at least) wind let him alone, and he'l threaten to fighe wife too; fuch as he being of the nature of Not-Abone ties.

Enigmetical!

tles, handle them gently, and they prick you; but roughly, and you break the points of them. After which (as before) he was the Fools Valiant man, so he becomes the Valiant mans Fool; and every one laughs at him, when he goes away offended, saying, He cares no more for others, then they for him: and if so, he is the happiest man alive; for I know none lives free from care then he.

con its and a self-to-dense it and to ever from thesee he is a saperlative

M I moble Lond, if you wo'd know

But both how to the, and live well too,
But onely your Archion give,
Recell you how the Patrons live.

Fire of all they never our

Hose of all they never here they and the Mor fey Clock nor Galendar and addition of the More of they are they are they affers of the World do go and and and all they affers of the World do go and and and all they affers of the World do go and and and and and are they affers of the World do go and and and and and are they affers of the World do go and and and and are they are the are they are the are they are the are they are they are they are they are they a

Aboye

: 5

Sed

Above all, they ne'ro refort To the bufe Hall nor Court Where poor men do nothing elfe, But thouble others and themfelyes : All the sufinefs they look after onely intheir sport and languter, With a Priend and chearful Cup Merrily be dine and fup waith Bear good Mufiche for a Played on hive ni d Thu they pactbe ting andy of bas chas mini Doing no barm to ung manga , al -muni A elfe, excepting ins pid hop it lierita & mon Si 'twiers in alt Sinnerbere, a mids as) bus Equally their Conceahey fteer shalin (100 Holydayes; nevertheposes speed and hir cu'd on They approprie th' Poptaclaft a nich saw Defart, feririe dased verte afed seedwat as long , and her seeds seed of verte long , and o and I think, a th' world non goes, A older The mit worft of Diverschofe. 1990 andmo bers : cill of of how like the Living thu, In de gome | my Lord, and Live mit w. angird is and car cup, fance when the prayes withour book, kith a God belp you when they as her my limit for which the Boggan turle her? time Sevences there ber , (as exped ag

pador

n.

20

ne re

is 28

Enigmatical!

Of a miferable old Gentlewoman.

Was One's acteir four and insighters; TEr word is, Piety any thing find be loft ! but others fay, Piety any thing fou'd be fav'd as the laves it of for the hoards up Candles ends, and scrapes up Greafe, being fo rich in Kitchin-fluff, as her very cloathes are nothing elfe, excepting hen old brancht Velver Gown, (as thin as a groat, with the figures all worn out) which the keeps onely for Sandayes and Helydayes; never wondring that the Jews cu'd wear their Clothes forty years together in the Defart, fince the haleworn her Petricoat as long, and her Stomacher is a piece of venerable Antiquity, deriv'd from the Velyet of Queen Marier Gown Por her Prayer-book, it was a Relique of her Grandmothers, till first grown greazy, and after falling into the Dripping-pan, the Dog and Gar fell out about it, and eat it up ; fince when the prayes withour book, with a God belp you when they ask her any thing, for which the Beggars curfe her, but the sneezers thank her, (as expecting nothing

no

W

fo

tw

aş

nothing elfe of her.) You enter her house with no lefs honour, then you would one the Witches kept their Sabot in , for the fits like one in the Chimney-corner, purring like a melancholly Cat, and mumping like an old wie. When she wo'd shew you good countenance, and when she'd Regal you indeed, the fends up for a Bottle of Sack, (as everlasting as the Widows Cruse of Oyl) that ha's serv'd this twelve-moneth all strangers that come to house, with a Box of Marmalade so old and dry, as the Flyes have quite given it over, in despair of extracting any more fweetness out of it: Which together with her other niggardliness and fordidness makes me forfwear the house, with resolution never to come there agen.

Character 32.

Of an Excellent Companion.

He is the life and spirit of the Company, and sparkling liquor, whilst others are but deegs and lees. He is never dry nor pumping, but

es

n

2

,

n d

2

Enigmaticall

hit alwayes full and flowing; every thing affording him matter of merriment, and for a need he can extract it out of nothing too. He differs from the Buffoon, as an excellent Comedy does from the Farfe; and is all wit, tother onely foolery. He is neither fourrulous nor prophane, but a good man as well as a good companion; and so far a good fellow, to take a chearful cup or two, (for wine's a good whetter of a fine edg'd wit, so with too much they whet it not quite away), and though to men of bufiness he feems to confer but little to the feriouser part of life; yet he whets the knife of the ferious man, and makes them more apt for bufinels afterwards, (as Mulick makes them apter for Devotion) and those who are displeas'd with his mirth, are just like Saul difpleas'd with Davids mulick, polleft with fome melancholly devil, or other, which onely fuch as he can cast out; for which they fend for him farther, then they did for Dr. Butler, and every one loves and cherishes him, he being the Darling of all the nobler fort, the Favourite of Kings, and Companion for any Prince.

M. Characters

3

being rather the hogsheed then his own head; favorring more of the hogsheed then be melican and he rather of them a good Con-

Of one who Zany's the good Companion.

Bis a Wit of amunder Region, like Fack 1 1 Pudding, groffy imitating on the lower Rope what t'other does neatly on the higher, onely for the langther of the valgar fore whilft the better and wifer can fcarcely fmile at him. He is a Buffoon, not a Wit, and in a Tavern is onely in his Element, (the Bedlam of Wits, where men are rather mad then mercy, and where there's onely noise infeat of mirsh!) His have nothing his old flories to make you laugh, (long since laughe thred-bare) or fome stale Jest vocather, (broken twenty times before) acathich if you laugh not, you put him out of countenance, and marre the faces, which onely were his own before. In fine, heils onely a Wit at the fecond hand, or a frippery of it, just as Long Lane is, compare unto Cheapfide, and rather a Channel of other Wits then a Fountain of his own, his Wie being Enigmatical!

being rather the hogsheads then his own heads, favouring more of Heidelberge then Helicen, and he rather a drunken then a good Companion.

Character 34.

Of one who init see the good Com-

Made in the 1694

I I is one, who now the Stage is down, after the Parafires part at Table, and fince Explore death none can play Mose to well as he. He is all for those who have bell who and fare, even to be of the same Religion with them too; and though he be specially devoted to the Patron, he praises the Gook, shakes the Butler by the hand, and is familiar with all the rest of the Servingmen; calling one Father, another Son, as they are of Age or Office in the House. His mimick Gesture.

rogether with his Buffoon faces all his mirch, excepting an old flory or two, which you grow weary of prefently, and then he must change his bank, or change his style, and fall to plain flattery, (which is his chiefeft talent) with which he infects Perfons, and marry those who are taken with him; as Plumet well observes those do who fish with sophistical baits, which earch fish sooner, ('timerye faith he) but renders them nothing worth when they are caughe, eld lo wibommon sais ad had fink, (incaping himfelf with all lister Character 37.

vn. ind ell

and the last of th

plains of Forting, that has water it's being

Of a Grave Formal Sir.

formal Pedant, an affeded recyclier, a wall TI declaims when he speaks like a Grammar Schoolmafter, and keeps his gravisis ty even in spitting, whilft it serves him for diflingnishing his periods. He walks like a piece of Datch Clock-work moy'd with wiers, and Jooks like an Image carried in Procession. He thinks them all ignorant, who admire not all he fayes and does; and the Age declining to-

Ænigmmic'all

towalds Barbarifine amiliti, that they do not initiate all his worken a settorno Heholds the onehoobleruntion of thin brufficient breeding form young Georgemen ; Gas beyond the Court and University and when they have but trawet'd ober his good patts once, takey need (not thevel larther to Frakcion on teal prile dryeighs against pho vancy of the cine with greater vanity of and the washed the hat the commoditi by divariothers; purion how wain he would be, had he the commodity of his owing Pre complains of Fortune, that like water the bears up light things, and lets the more mighty fink, (meaning himself with all his gravity) and is malecontent, that he is not rewarded according to his deferts; when badbe his deferts, he onely deserves to be laught at, and that is all. In fine, he's a Compound of a formal Pedant, an affected traveller, and Plantid miles gleriofie alcogether ; though he thinky himfelf tain Mare quan Bereiri without compare, whill I can find nothing to admire in him, but onely that he can admire benfelt to machanation - work and alarma Tolk like an Lose carried in Procession. The

h, son sumb one annough a militarille

Charasters.

Character 36.

Of an all-admirable Perfon

on the state of th

A LL that is fweet and ravilling is in her looks, with a chearfulness the low to behold, and a perpetual fine-filine, without any clouds at all, joyn'd with fo much noble vertue, and attractive fweetnels, as file draws youto a certain distance from her, and there suspends you betwirt Love & Reverence, none ever dering to approach her nigher, nor having power to go farther off: So as that Beauty which in the dayes of Ethnicifine, had excited to Idolatry, now excites onely to Deverion; fufficient to fill the place where the is with votive Tables, and to work miracles, whilft she's the greatest miracle her felf; and so all furprizing, as a Difease but half so taking as her eyes, wo'd be Epideonical, and depopulate all the world. Then the's fo courteens and oblily good then the; and her speech and behaviour to gentle and affable, as you may calk of Magick, but there's none charms but the. In a E 4 word.

Enigmaticall

and

her

në

Die

be

word, her Gentleness is so great, as 'tis enough to tame the siercest Lions, and civilize the most barbarous Savages; and if there be any sierceness or savageness in the world, 'tis onely where she is not, and because she can't be every where. In sine, her Beauty, Vortue, and Obliginguess is so great, as Heaven seems to have made her as she is, onely to make Beauty more vertuous, and Vertue more beautiful, by soyning them together with so much sweetness and gentleness.

Character 37.

con in and diere hipends

Switch Of a Sufpicions Person.

She torments her felf and others, by puting every thing on the Rack of doubt, and wrefting all unto suspicion; mean time she makes them rather confess what she'd have them, then what is true indeed. As all things feem yellow to those infected with the Jaundies, so all things seem of the colour of her suspicions.

Characters.

h

9

ed

9 4

fuspicions. She affixes an ill fense still unto your words, and an ill meaning to all your actions, and like French Poalt Horfes, goes on with her fuspicions, who when they stumble once, never leave till they be down, Like Snow-halls, the revolves flight offences in her minde, till th' as made mighty injuries of them at laft, and her Surmizes are alwayes wifer then the Truth, when both for her own fake and theirs, her friends could wish they were but as wife at least. She explicates others words and actions, as Hereticks do Scripture, in the dark and mystick sense, when the literal is obvious and clear enough; and there's as little hopes of converting t'one as t'other from their errone ous opinions. So whill her minde is just like the Winters Sun, that exhales more vapours then it can diffipate agen; the both lofes her felf in the mifts the makes, and lofes her Friends, by mistaking them for her linemies.

Enigmaticall

Character 38.

Of a Talkative Lady.

Here is no coming into her company, under pain of a dayes Head-ache, and a ringing in the ears a fortnight after; and whofoever hears her, withes that either the were dumb, or they were deaf. To hear her talk, you would wonder at her matter, and at her telk when you heard her matter; but confidering both together, you would admire at neither, but onely exclaim with him who plum'd the Nightingale, Vox eft, & prateres mibil, the is a voice, and nothing elfe; for tis onely a noise the makes, and the labour not of her Brain but Tongue, and you would wonder how that holds out fo long, but for that it moves with as great facility, as leafs shaken with the winde, (give it but breath enough, and it will ne're lye still) or rather indeed as Atomes move i'th' Air; for it is quite unhung, and depends neither on nerve nor imagination. There being as much difference betwixt a voluble Tongue and hers, as betwixt an excellent

the

03

me

Characters.

tene Vanter, who artfully moves himself, and one who precipitates himself without any art at all. All the wonder is, how the makes to different ends hold together, whilft the speaks onely Thirlins, (much like the composition of a Taylors Cushion, all of threads) but for that the cares not, all her care is for some body to hear her talk, (which shortly the must be force to hire, (for this too great a pain to do grass) mean time a Machin with so constant a motion as her Tongue, would be far better then a marmuring Fountain to make one sleep, and the wants onely the faculty of talking in her sleep her self, to make the perpential motion with her Class.

Character 39.

Of a Taciturne Person.

II is the contrary extremity, and knows as little to speak, as t'other to hold his peace. Friar Bacons Head was a talkative one to his, and there is nothing so dull and phlegmatick, matick as his discourse. You might have patience to tend a Still as well, that drops but once quarter, and the counting a Dutch Clock and his words, were an Exercise much alike. The wheels of his Tongue like those of a rusty Tack, must be perpetually oyl'd, or else th'are t a Itand , and he is just like Pharatim picture, Il Curtain, and wholoever thinks there is pucht under it, like Zeuxes are deceiv'd. Yet men vailed Shrines as he, in Cleyflers are counted very Oracles, where filence is in precept. and veneration, and where their wifedom is the folly of the world; and be they their wife men, they shall be my Fools still, who admire none for being alwayes filent, nor more admire their filence, then that of a Tree or Plant; who shall ne're count Impotency perfection, but rather when the power of speaking never proceeds to act, shall suspect there's somewhat in it more then want of will. Onely for this once, (fince they will needs have it fo) I will believe there is somewhar in him, 'canse I co'd never yet fee any thing come out of him.

Enigmaticall

is the contrast estudining and knows as

Sec.

Characters.

i-dey

,

s

Character 40.100 Character 40.100 Character

Of a Table-Diffutant.

worth and conclude v

Ifputation is onely for the School and who disputes too much out of it, that'd be fent to School agen. Of all places, 'cis leafe proper for the Table, where their discourse thu'd be like their Fare, eafie and of light digestion, and not too hard nor difficult. Such love to hear themselves talk, and if they would hear more, and talk less, they wo'd be wifer then they are. The contrary extremity to thefe are your too easie Affenters to all you say, who let discourse fall too soon, as cother holds it up too long. The mean betwixt both; is to continue discourse with a handsome reparty or two and neven to pais beyond the chird reply, Mean time, the wife avoid disputing with them, as they do quarrelling with Hellers, (there being no reputation to be got by either) and tis with disputing just as 'cis with quarrelling, where some are so foolish to draw quarrels upon themselves, others so wife to avoid them, which those best may do, without any loss of Repu-CEC

Enigmatisall

Reputation, who have sufficiently declar'd on other occasions, that 'tis suffier discretion then weakness in them, and want of will then ability, that they avoid them now. For my part, of all Surfeits, I hold that of talking the worst, and conclude with Balzas, that whosoever thinks with a long-winded discourse, or raising his voice a tone of two higher then mine, so earry it, he shall have his opinion and mine too, rather then He concend with him.

Character 41.

de o't fels, they wo'd be willen

Of a Flaunders Devote.

Made at Antwerp.

She is so pure and nice, as when she comes but where men are, she takes the winde of them, for fear of being got with Childe, (as Spanish Gyunets are) and brushes her self when she goes away agen, for fear of a spice of fornication, ever since she understood that man

like

berl

dare

ous

M

a.F.

She

for

tha

As

her

it the

ho

der

ati

co

66

13

Characters

3

man is but made of duft. She wears her eye like Spectacles on her nofe, and looks as fo berly and demurely as Cous in Rengraces. She dares not fcratch, (though it itch never fo furious) for fear of transgressing the Rules of Medelty; and a Fly is as fafe on her Nofe , or a Flea in her Bosome, as a Thief in Sanctuary. She defies the World with all its vanities, and for the Devil, knows all his tricks fo well, as that Devil must rise betimes that couzens her. As for the Flesh, she not onely mortifies it in her felf, but in her Hotch-pot too, giving it fuch an allay of Carrots and Turnips, as there's no danger of its infurrection. holds her Confessor, and the Patron of his Order for the greatest Saints; and salutes all the rest, even to the Dog of the house, with a Beati qui babitant. By the colour of her Petticoat you may eafily perceive what Order she's addicted to: and as your Maremaids are half fish, half flesh, so she's Religious below the Girdle, and Secular above . Of her Faith there is no doubt, and for her Good Works, you may have a pattern of them when you please, for the is commonly the best Bone-lace-maker in all the Parish; though her principal trade be making of Scruples; of which she makes more.

nc

on en y gu (-

0

Enigmaticall

in a day, then her Confesor can undo in ten ; for which, though I wo d not be him, yet I code with my Soul with her at any time, but onely on Ladies Ever, and other particular dayes of Devotion, when the falts and prayes, and disciplines most intollerably.

Character 42.

Of a Green-Sickness Girle.

She is like a Mouse in a Holland Cheese, whence the more she spends in it, the worse house she keeps; the walls being her constant diet, of which she eats so long, till she sussil the old? Proverb at last, the weakest goes to the walls; for which shu'd they accuse her of Burglary, she has this commodity that she could never be stary'd in prison: Nay, whilst some eat themselves into prison, she by the Estridges help might eat her self out agen. She is a great Benefactive to Masons, who where they finde her, are sure to finde work enous: And she ha's a great

me

Co

Nu

fur the eat

rat

Hu

ext

fo

fbe

of

tù

his

of

he

Chamatening

great devotion to the Church walls too, where the might former est fruthe den Command ments, by breaking her fall, then break the Commandments of the Church by eating. No Numbers wo'd hold her, but the d break Inclo-fure prefently, though for the reft the d pale them all for Brickness of diet ; and though the eat white meaty wolden worth to tem the Thunne and Carthulum. By berenchplexion The feems rather made of Marbin or Clish , the that red Earth salam was made of a said through the be so Meagre a Soyle, as the grows never the fatter by it , iver bucknows hoe what a good Husband-man may do, which they far the wants extreamly a But few word take a Wife with fo much at Homeseiferstons it she holds on as the begins, the wo'd foon eat her Husband our of house and home ; ronely a Miles might venture on ther with all faultsy, flic beingmuch of his Complexion ; and for het Dien ther aring of Meal wo'd be at others charges and the walls of his Windemill are not comprized in her Bill of Fare mone committee the work

Time or chance an marre or make 30 in.

Est time is more lafting stuff, article.

Library to me the my freedom take.

F

Chas

.

o o

k

å

1

Ænigmaried!

ereat devotion to the Church wills too, whene en Command the might femer en frette ments, by bredking her fall, then break flie Commandments of the Church by eating. No fure preferely, though for the ralk he't pass them all for trictness of diet; and though the and Carthoden misting ensemblidein Ile feems rather made withdarling self their glaton than red Facin sed words atadionar Franch tough the be fo Meagre a Soyle, as the cows never the fatter by it thi ornhandens of parties and fat Bood Huband (for ting the de hier then't selle want a certeant two blitte with the tenon blitte with for much the less want to much the less want to the way shall the less on as the begins, the wo'd foon or ber Husband out of house and body wordly a said milest wen-10 d'un gore i'ch' Mafter ben the Sheet go sins bie Complexion . what Ilir end nidither ating of Meal water had had private in month to walls of his Wednell are not compraid it

Nor if t Exc'llency enouf; I to hid tall
Time or chance can marre or make ;
But t'must be more lasting Stuff;
Shall from me my freedom take.

di

m C

e ci

7 å

1

A

3

39

pany be makes lamentable moan, and forcezes this stear of para shipmentage with with der wonnachden geinergen indereit geleben difdurfe is. When deivergemonic doud who was the country with which with a country with which we have been but her hed. (wifelenseling distinguished with a first had needed and to have him with his warm hijh to be needed with the said to have that warm hijh to be needed with the said had a cely cold ; whom who be the bond bearing the cold in the co makes mention of any former himband but wrely as a four to the latter, with God be with him, he wid baye done thus and thus; and if he do not forco, is as ready to bid call e with bim. In fine, the . 44 ADDATARCOLD Dowery, and when the has that, the cares not how foon he is rid drabbi Wery Widdard, bir tien one of the Conditions of the Marriage flur d

She shoots off Hawands as fast as Boyer do Pellets out of Pot-guns, and one difcharg'd, all her care is to charge agen. She is as curious of her mourning dress, as if she rather courted a new Husband, then mourned for the old; and her Glass and woman have more ado with putting on her Veil and Peak, then formely (in the dayes of Revelling) with putting on her masking Cloathes. Before company

Anigmatical!

pany the makes lamentable moan, and fqueezes out a tear or paro ; but when the's alone with her woman, the laughout it, and all their difcourse is. Who is the property man thand who would make the heft Highwood Con She counts her felf widdowed, not for her bosome, but her bed, (wifely making difference betwixt a Husband and a Friend and procures to have that warm still, when her Husband is dearcely cold: whom the to foon forgets, as the never makes mention of any former Husband, but onely as a fpur to the latter, with God be with him, he wo'd have done thus and thus; and if he do not fo too, is as ready to bid God be with bim. In fine, the onely marries for a good Dowery, and when the ha's that, the cares not how foon the is rid of you; fo as were I to marry her, one of the Conditions of the Marriage shu'd he that the thu'd be a Widdow no more or bethrew me I'de none of her, wred all her care is co charges att.

Universed her mourning dees, as it the rebar courted a new Himbana then mourned as the fill at the CLS and women thereare do not be then the reliance that the remains on the day of the celebration of the courter of the courter of the state of the arting on the courter of the state of the celebration.

Characters.

69

the blood Character 45. when the

Of a Mendicant Irish Priest.

Made at Antwerp. 11 bon forde

B. goes over Seas in Troufes, and there turns Begg ar before he curns Sendent and learns the art of craving before any other Arc: By which he brings all the Town where he lives into contribution for his maintenance; one giving him victuals, another closthes, even to the devout honest Coller, who gives him the mending of his Brongs or shoom If they be many of them, they beg some old House or other, (which they call a Colledge) and there live together like fo many Beggare in a Barn', and to ftir up the peoples Charity and Compassion towards them, they tell them famentable Stories of Ireland, and St. Patricks Purgatory, (which they believe the fooner, because they look like so many poor souls come out of it themselves.) Having thus provided forthis other necessities, he begs his Learning, and having got a few feraps of Latine together, is made Prieft; when like a ragged Cole, origin tes ith if-

ut

a ve ly er ut be

d

r

Anguacical!

he changes his Coat for a Caffock, fo old and thread-bare, ast has neither lining nor outfide, and you'wo'd doubt where ever t'were new or no. Then by recommendation to fome under Sacrifian, he gets to fay Dirges, by which and the Candles ends he picks up a pretty Living, and is as fare as the Beggars of the Parish to be at every Dole and Famerall TAFtenthis; if he ger a Chappel of fome twenty Nobles a year, or to be under Paten to fome Monastery of Nant, be thinks himself a Bifhop and very Batriateb ; and if he chance co come to any higher promotion, the is fo glorious as all this is forgot, and in thort time himfelf gives life the mending of his Brings or tho 001 the they be many of them, they beg fome old Weste or other, (which elected) a College) and there tive together like to many Bed were with Secharacleroto. I wall a thand Compation towards then They tell them of an inrefolute Person not all and and Par garder y (urnicar they usualeye the looner, because they lopton countries they be come out of it they be countries they be considered.

ballance without any weight of indgement to incline him to either Scale. Every thing thing he thinks on homerce of deficeration and he does nothing readly, for while he chinks not on to be difficulted that help others out of Labyrings, To I carry land to then and he of all creatures living wo'd be far wifer, if he had none at all. He begins nothing without confideration, and when he begins to confider oncer never majers anlend ... He ha's fome dull Damen in him cryes de not, de nos ftill, when he is going to do any thing , which he obeys as a divine Revelation; and he playes at shall I, shall I so long, till opportunity of doing to be part and their las he comments the falley he repents at leafure. The fifth midie the Free he was to be dans will an an is enemy to retolucion or rather of retoit of de often as he comes unto it. He could never the at Cooking hot Hoffe Rate yet, be caple the Barcle for Mace was alwayes done before he end refore which fide to take; and ho's whely happy in this that his interolution hitherto ha's hindred him from marrying and emaing theo bonds. And his nor the least part of his happiness, to be to long in chining his more than the beyon to chine) amongst fo many 林即可以

11 Changing

ind utere mc

by et-

he

as HF

1

y

10

Anignaticall

any Sections we have now adever, phough it ofition and if he on him will be from Ard der, it he had mone at without confideration, and when he begins to dentider once hevendors elend wille has tome dult Dends in him crycs do not, do not achall L hall I to long, till opportunite erpetual contradiction of the would and the would not, and make reals he Coach yet let it alone too drive to such a place of weither, is her ordinary Dialed She fers from the irresolutes in that they are alwayes beginning, and the never makes an end and the sprices and blots out again, while he's deliberating what to write. One being endless parte antest other a parte polt; one being a rely tother a relief pain So you can sell what to make of cones Negative and how two Negatives make an Affirmative, but of her year and hat together you know not what to make but onely that the knows not what to make of it ber felt. Her thoughts and impginations differ differ from others, as Greefen figures do fo natural; and from Gratefaur, in that shele have fome delign in them, but they have mond ; fo the least in all hafte for one, and have nothing to fay to them when they come; and long and instantly throws away, never looking towards the end, but onely the beginning of things, por flanding ftill in ber choice, but whirling perpetually about , fo as those who are of one minde to day, and another to morrow, are con-Stant, compar'd to her, and Saturas Revolution compard unto the Meen, For you know not where to have her a moment; and whofoever would his her thoughts, must shoot five ing, and flye themselves , who foever would follow them.

Charactern

Character 48.

of a petty Politick.

I P you would deceive him, tell him Truth, and believe what he fayes, if you would deceive your felf. He goes ever vizzarded, and you

in it

W.

5

pendarbnever know his true face, bue may ap rayes know the fatter the cares has in whose light; he stands; to he may dee; her whole get ficultie raines, for he may buffe this own is for as they took on him not as a rain there is serious beaff, himo homing Lapley that does all the harm and milebief herein eo debers to which he ha's got to it a mane? and he bis half bang d already, and no body (chacknows him) but withes him wholly for and this fine Repen cation he has got by his properties of his its nothing the but was different into onely the Tanguar fuller but this the Heart too and bates far world affect, for that makes them his believe his words, bije this; that they will not believe his deeds; fo as fhu'd they fee him do the best action in the world, they wo'd imagine he did it with fome itt intent, and out of petty Policy, which is nothing elfe but Treachery in Fight, Porfidauftefs in Prieridibip, Couzenage in Gaming, and Deceir in Bargaining; and who foever uses it, an plain Emilibis a Knave, though the qualitying Term be a Politician.

F vourwould deceive him, tell in ne Trach, for and believe what he fayes, it won would de-

Il Changerof.

cetten, all Meral ones; and when for pure careity of Lynch, beit court of the court

Of a good bonest Catholick

神紀作品中山 少世 明明 明日 日 日 一 一 一 一

d

HE is that your Ifrachta, or true Ifrachte, in whom there is no deceit; and you may as fafely take his word, as anothers bond or out b he had rather fuffer then to wrong at any time; and is fo fernpulous, as he man oft deceive bimfelf, but never you. He does as he fayes, and Ayes as he thinks, and inging wethand hodel? in everything and to fee tils disseconey and he nest fimplicity, you'dehink the Holden Age wire return'd again. He course Converfacion be twik; manuand man, his fecond Reigios prand for his first, betwirt God and bimfelf , von'd take him for one of the Primitive Christians, and the Primitive Church were again revived in him, where the name of Diffionefly was wholly unheard of amongst them; and the things felf amongst the Mea's of things maknown a Wertue as rare as the Phenix now adayes when amongst fach variety of Setts, there are far more Saints then hereft men; when among the the boaft of Christian Vertues, they have tor-

gotten Anigmaticall.

cortien all Moral ones; and when for pure learning of Hanefty, he's counted an boneft man, who is not altogether a Knave.

Character souls a

Of a degenerate Nobleman.

Made Anno 1632. 1912

ITE is a certain filly thing, who now he has no voice in Parliament, fearcely knows what to fav. He ha's made the name of Lord odely a mock-name, more ridiculous then the name of Lord of mifrule in ancient times ; and they shun him, as they do Lord have mercy upon w, upon doors : and this plague be has brought upon himself, by foolishly imagining he shu'd be any thing, when those were nothing who made him all he is. As if the stars shu'd conspire to deprive the Sun of light, or Streams to dry up the Fountam whence they flow'd: when no wonder if every Glow-worm or farthing Canthe out-fhines them now; or that their greatnels thu'd be at to low an ebb, as every one boldly boldly Bridgs over them, who durk not proach to nigh as their brinks before they justic him now in the streets, who was wont before like Mandering , to make whole fireets to give him way, and no body takes non tice of him, unless some one in scorn points at him (perhaps) and faves, there goes a Lord b and this is all the priviledge of Peerage they have now whefales the having every bale fellow without Commission to learch their house, every Trade man cite them before their Worm thips at next Shire Towns, and every common Serjeant drag them away to Prijen, where they lyq in the Dungeon or Common Goal : An this fine Prerogative they have got, who would needs plack down the King, onely to be promoted to the Kings Bench themselves on ly include how life

Character $1.

Of one that is truly Noble.

Made at Antwerp, Anno 1651

He is a Nobleman indeed, t'other onely in name and title; and his Titles become

i S

be nd

016

he

10

n-

èn

4-

nd

A migmutida!

han sond teem one white for third white socher appears middlem like things in and Cloathing 111 PHE Blazon This Arms by plant ? not by comort and bis palgrey Whenes rei give billed with misself the sense Chamer to him, "The does prant worthy things mater, well knowing the parity of this roger the flare of him in nothing but priority of the survival alter the ment of the month of many a part of Novilly, as he magnes That worthwith does but diffante hittelf ; and putes on Piklant's Clouding, who is direcurreous Above all, he holds Loyalty To effentiall to Modilier To as the imagines he will is Difloyal once, not onely degrades himself, but all his Pofferity of their Nobility. Of the Liberality I fay nothing, but onely imagine how liberal he wo'd be if he had it now, when no worthy person co'd want it whillt he had any thing, To conclude; his minde is erect, what ever his Fortunes be; and the Poverty of the time can no wayes deject him, who like an ancient Ruine, flands great whifft he hands, and wo'd fall great, however low he fell.

The salvester as indeed, there is one in the \\ Chanester 1

hapes as often, there's none would know has a sind the realogs 13 to graph Decaule his does not know her fellow

Of an uncertain Nature.

CHe is the Anomal of her Sex) not to be Comprize in any general tole, nor can any particular one be given of her. She is a Sea without a North Start and to full of thirting fands, as there is no failing by Compais with hen, nor Venturing with due the Planone Iti in hanily sandyou may fpell theirest backward and deciphenthe baixleft Characters but then it wood felling mos desiphering hare . One best ne ho the da's by a girthan a lattery; can neede finde her mit giffor now the likes a whing, and prefencia diflikes ib mowwhe she angropinis on and presently of anothery for as you may do twice fitto her company, and not twice into dre fame company; and when the cis in good or bad humone, you must go abla Cunningwo man tooknows for the srice kunning woman enouf to know her felfarin fine, their avery Chamelion or Prostur in disposition, changing fushions of minde ofner then the French, does fulhions oth body and did the change bed shapes

As migmundall

flapes as often, there's none would know her a and the realog of all fe (perhaps) because the does not know her felfe

is an unicertain Nature

She is the Kenya Shee de not to he compris Me on can any and a mode and to name of any minima funds, as there is no failing by Compais with The comes up to Town to get a Wife, and when he is there he knowed not what to they for he is the Mile of the Company where he comes, and onely playes a part in the Durali Show Or if he fay any thing, he labours for in like a Piny s and prefently his Spirits finte down agen and leave drim dry Hb fits nodding in company like a fleepy perfort overo watcht and rowfe him with a Question, and he flares on you just like one newly waken our of fleep. He looks with his mouth, and thinks you would felthim a Bargain when you sh him any thing, (and 'tis impossible to ask him any thing he understands) yet when he is lone, the and his man Jahn have many o dry Diffeourie about Wiving ; and his man gives him thapes

Characters.

him as many cautions about good Husbander, which he is apt to follow, being so inferable, as he grudges at Coach-hire, trembles at the name of Hide Park, Malberry Garden, and the New Exchange; and never bestows any thing on his Mistris above a Bottle of Ale, or pound of Cherries when they are at cheapest: So that unless he be richist may be long enough before he get a Wife; and if he bê, a hundred to one but some Wife or other gets him, and afterwards make an Ass, if not an Oxe of him.

Character 54.

Of a School-boy.

His Parents may well fay of him, as and other did of their Son, that they had pray'd for a Boy fo long, as they fear'd he would prove one all his life; to which much confers their Breeding in Grammer-Schools, where they learn nothing but lying and loyering; and converse so much with Boyes, as they are quite marr'd for ever becoming Men. He ha's

160

in par

2 Enigmaticall

nothing fo ready as his Hat at his fingers ends, which he twirles about in mighty agony, when he is out of his Lefton, and knows not what to fay, and ask him any question, and he looks about, as if he were feeking for an answer, and when he answers you, scrapes such another leg, as Fack of the Clock-house, when he goes about to ftrike. He speaks in the tone he repeate his Lellon in, to falt as if his tongue were running away with it; and fo loud, as if all the company were deaf; and out of his Leffon knows not what to fay. Of his Manners I fay nothing, for he ha's none at all; nor is there any hope he will ever learn; whose Head is fo doaz'd with knocking, and Breech hardened with whipping, as he ha's neither fear nor wit. So as had I a Son whom I lov'd indeed, I'de rather fend him to Parish-Garden, to learn fuch tricks as the Ape does there, rather then such tricks as they learn at School

I mean not by this now your publick Grammer Schools, thole Fountains of Learning, whole clear Streams flow into the Univerlities, but those dirty Puddles, where Children are rather defil'd then imbued with Learning, whill they learn nothing but to read Scripping, and then misunterpret it; from which foul

fink

fi

T

181

religion Toursman about the chains and yearned haid precity well began tiblion and one the continue of the changing the Sign of the Schunder of the Less, and the service tweet inconfice Cat and What, to see their man Character 550 to the total the beautiful St. Cons. and the beautiful St. Cons.

the stand our Law sinco che decidere and chil-

Of your Fanatick Reformers.

work they make of their Kelomation, and for Hey complain of the old Reformation, I the they plucke not down Churches and Cathedrala, as well as Abbies, and think they were not zealous enough, to leave fo many Crof-flyles to stumble the Brethren, and Crofswayes, to make them erre and flray from Righteousness; and for the Signs in the City, cry out against them, as the abomination of abominations, to fee fo many Popes-heads, fo many Triple-Crowns, Bishops Miters, and Cardinals Caps, with Friars and Nuns, Beads, Agnin Del's, and the like, which makes London look like a very Babylan: Whereas had they their will, a Bird fluid not flye in the air with its wings acroft, a ship with its Croft-gard fail upon the Sea, nor prophage Tieler fic crofs-lege'd on his Shop-board, or have Cross-bottom to winde his chread

VIII

en at ks

n-

ne

ie

le III

sis

thread upon. As for the Signs, they have pretty well begun their Reformation already, changing the Sign of the Salutation of the Angel and our Lady, into the Souldier and Citizen, and the Katherine Wheel into the Cat and Wheel; so as there onely wants their making the Dragon to kill St. George, and the Devil to tweak St. Dunstan by the Nose, to make the Reformation compleat. Such ridiculous work they make of their Reformation, and so zealous they are against all Murth and Fally; as they would pluck down the Sign of the Cut and Fiddle too, if it durst but play so loud as they might hear it.

Character 56. house

Of a French Dancing-Mafter in London.

A French Dancing-master or Baladin, thinks himself a very Paladin of France, when has left off being User, and is a Master once. He has the Regimin of the Ladies Legs, and is the sole Pedagogue of their Feet, teaching them

ve y, he

nd

2-6

ke

us

fo he he

e d

m

them the French Language, as well as the French Pace, as Coupez, Paffex, Levez, che. (which they understand as perfectly as Englib) he fetches them up in their Courant with a bei Comare! as a Carter does his Horfes with a Whip, and makes as many antick Geflures, the while, as a Bowler does when his Bowl's a trundling. He makes a Pilgrimage every year to Paris to learn new Dances, and di-Atributesat his return his Branles, Garets and Sarabands amongst his Schollars, as Pilgrims do the Relicks of the Shrine where they have been : speaking as reverently of Manfieur Proroft the while, as they do of the Saint whole Shrine they have visited. There was a long contention betwixt the French Taylor and him, in point of Gentility, till by Montague's means the French Dancing-master carry'dit. In fine, he lives a merry life and a long; for his Dancing-days are never done, whilft he makes all dance after his Fiddle, and he is a brave Fellow all the year; but on a Ball or Grand Ballet night without compare,

G.3.

Cha

them the French Language, as well as the first Pace of Country of Country as The Country as En-

gwh) he feet as them up in their Community of the Association of the Community of the Commu

Thew how far they are removed from Court breeding, their Schools most commonly are credied in fome Countrey Village nigh the Town, where to fave charges, they have the worlf Maffers as can be gor for Love or money, Tearning to quaver inflead of finging, wor inflead of dancing, and rumble the Virginals feratch the Lute, and rake the Chitar, Instead of playing nearly and handfomely. As for their Languages, a Magpie in a moneth would learn to chatter more then they do in a year. " And for their Behaviour, it is nothing elfe but a low Courtzie, with a bridling cast of their Chin to fetch it up agen. And laftly, for their Work, (in which they chiefly glory) there are frequent Examplars of it, how fome one or other makes fuch work with them, as the flitches of it can never be pickt out agen without the Midwives help. Mean time I will not fay their reverend Mistris is a Bawd, (who thinks her felf another Deborah for Government) but cercertainly the is little tels, to give admittance to litch Vermin into their Burroughs, (under the name of Couzens) who when their heads are in once, all their body naturally follows you have the name of Comhit-makers. Shop being more haunted in hot weather with Walps and Flics, then these Schools be, with all the wilde Gallants about the Town.

T.

y,

or

or

ut

y

(S

10

case overcos of the role bear of the case was

and men a Lady of excellent Com hand said bes and like an an and out of excellent con the said best colors when the said best colors when the colors when the

You would imagine all the Muses and Grancer were in her when the speaks, Her Conversation both for words, matter, and manner of delivery, is so charming, pleasant, and delightful, even to the tone and accent of her voice, which is so sweet and harmonions, as 'tis more Musick to hear her speak, then others sing. Discourse, which is a Tyranay with others, is a Commonwealth with her, (where every ones opinions are free) and she is so castie company, as 'tis pleasure to be in it, 88

whill (like uneafie Garments) you are not in others without pain. She never contradicts any, but onely blufhes when they fpeak impertinently, (a greater reprehension (to those who understand blushes) then can be exprest in words) and ha's too much Reafon to use Partion, (the Arms of fallhood) to defend the Truth : But having deliver'd her opinion, if you yield not, the does, rather then contend with you, and leaves you the shame of the Vi-Bory, when with more honour you might have been overcome. She does not railly take up argument, nor abruptly lay it down agen, but? handformely affumes it, delightful continues it, and like an Air in Mulick, just comes unto the close, when the ear expects it. In fine, bee Conversation is far more chearful then theirs who length more, and finile lefs; true joy being a chearful thing, and as far different from higher and giggling mirth, as, Elemental fire from Squibs and Crackers ; fo as Promethianlike, the infpires all who converse with herwith noble flame and spirit; it being Vertue to know her, Wifdom to converse with her, refinest Breeding to observe her, and a Species of the joy and happiness of cocher life, to enjoy the happiness of her Conversation in this. Cha-

Character 59.

Of a young Enamourist

Having left the School, and School-boyes. Toyes, next Toy he gets is a Miltris. whom he courts with legs and faces, out of Ovid, or some of your modern Poets, and he talks of Phabus and Cupid, and of fo many Gods and Goddeffes, as you'd take him for fome Pagan never converted to Christianity. He fighs like a dry Pump, or broken winded Bellows; and to hear him, you'd never wonder at Lapland Witches felling winde fo cheap. There is nothing fo cold, as to hear him talk of Flames, nor fo dull, as to hear him mik of Cupids darts; and you'd forfwear Love, to hear but how he makes it. Mean time, his Miffris lets him know, that 'tis in Love as 'tis in War, which declar'd once, y'are to expect nothing but Hostility; and knows 'tis with Lovers, as 'tis with Anglers, who feed filles till they are caught; but caught once, feed on them; fo 'tis long e're the bite at the bait, unless he be rich, and then the nibbles a little to draw draw him on, else she jears him to death, as they Rhyme Rats in Ireland, and he dyes a Quaker in Love at last, (of all Sects the most ridiculous) the subject of some lamentable Ballad, that tells you how he is gone to the Elizian Fields, when 'tis onely by Moor Fields, (perhaps) where they are buried amongst the mad men and Quakers, and there's an end of them.

O

calking photes and capil, and it in many

Ord, or fore of your modern Po-of a Precience is or, Artificial Beanty and The Standard Stan

Henfes the Trewel inflead of the Pencil, and paints to palpably, as if the fought not colour to hide it, but rather to publish it. is a descrous at the Fan, as a Burcher at the Ply Cap, and ha's as much need to keep the flyer from her face, as he from his meat. goes a fowling for Gallants, and now makes Springes for them of her hair, now Pic-falls of her breaks, and now Lime-twigs of her looks; and more glories in the multiplicity of them,

a 12 - 1

49

The second ref

them, then a Lawyer of his Clients, or Physician of his Patients. Mean time, who treat her, may intreat any thing of her; and he who ha's the Coach, may carry her any where : the thinking the point of honour to confift more in Reputation of Beauty, then Fame and of being fair, then good. So paffer the the Spring-tide, and Summer of her Beauty merrily, till growing tow rds Autumn with hes, more Arts are necessary to repair the defects of Beauty, and decayes of Age; no old Contage ever needing more reparations then the nor more Arts to maintain it : She now complaining h'as got a Cold, or fleeps not well a nights, that her ill looks may be imputed unto that accident; now leeking dark corners to thew her warpt Complexion in, as conzening Citizens do to thew their counterfeited Ware until at laft, when none of these milerable thifts will ferve, the pretends to Wildom when her Folly will hold out no longer , and course the reputation of Good, when the can have no longer that of Fair.

Character 61.

Of a Natural Beauty.

Made at Cobham, Anno 1655.

THether & chearful Air does rife, And elevate ber fairer Eyes Or elfe a penfive Heaviness Her levely Eye-lids does depress. Ever the fame becoming Grace Accompanies her Eyes and Face: Bver you'd think that Habit beft, In which ber Count nance last was dreft, Poor Beanties! whom a Blah or Glance Can fomerimes make look fair by chance; Or carious Drefs, or artful Care, Can make feem fairer then they are Give me the Eyes, give me the Face, To which no Art can adde a Grace ; Give me the Looks, no Garb nor Drefs Ban ever make more fair, or less.

Cha-

Characters.

old gridgish a rolls out in a

Of a Nowice of the -'s Order.

11

T.

b

Ð

TE is a young Lover, and his Order is his Miftris, that to try his conftancy, makes a fool of him; the more doz'd and bemount he is, the better still , 'cis a fign he is right, and ha's a true vocation, and if he have any wit or judgement of his own, they cry out on him for a very Reprobate. He hates all womenkinde, and calls a Petticoat Leviathan, and a Smock (but innocently blanching on a hedge) Afteroth, or the foul Devil of Fornication. He walks with his Eyes as fixed in his head, as a dead Hares in a Poulterers shop, and crumples up himfelf like a Hog-loufe, for fear of officion. He makes as many ftops as he goes, as an old rufty Jack, and windes up himfelf as often to rectifie his intention. He fayes his Our Fathers as devoutly as others their Our Father; and counts the Patron of his Order the greatest saint in Heaven. He is no more mov'd then a Statua at a chiding or reprehenfion, and is as peart and brisk after a good DifciAnigmaticall.

Discipline, as an Ape after a whipping. He breaks Glasses, and thinks to make all whole agen, with a Deo gratius, which is the word when he does any thing (as he does every thing) untowardly. In time, his Novitiat parses just like an enchantment with him, and he's in Excasse all the while, till tow rds the end he recovers by degrees, and the Charm expired.

Character 63.

Of a wicked debancht Person.

I Is minde is a Room all hung with Arctiva Pictures, and he is practifing apace to delign after them, and he fails has coppied out most of them already. He is not capable how any one can be chaste, and when he cannot fin in act, he does it in imagination to livery thing with him is incensive unto Lust, and shew him but so much Smeek as would scarce make Tinder, and he is all after with its presently. His words are able to defile the cars, and

le

ole

rd

0 de . . . de

d

to Maidenhead.

her.

and corrupt the manners of any one that hears him and there is no fuch dirty Habitation, nor unwholesom air, then that wherein he breathes. He is so little asham'd of his Vices, as he glories in them, and fhu'd be forry and afham'd that any one shu'd be more vicious then he. He knows no crying fins but his own Baftards, nor cryes for any himfelf, but those which fend him to the Surgeons every Spring and Faff, (when his fweats are more for his own then Adams fins) and if he lose a Nose (or so) in the service, he as much glories in it, as a Souldier in wounds he has receiv'd in the Wars; and shews that one may be as impudent in being nofelefs as frontlefs at any time. To give you his Character in brief, he laughs at Confirence and Religion, his God is his luft, and he believes there is no Devil but onely a handsome Wench: He thinks Hell onely a good Winter Parlour, Heaven onely a pleasant Summer Seat; and for the narrow way this ther, knows no other, but onely the High-way

the discontinued the describer of the wife high of . In the country in the contract to 21 v Carvicano 61 v det attava in manare

Britis orders a particular to a second

the box or the second

Enigmaticall

Character 64.

Of an English Papift Afs.

Ing James (of happy memory) was wont to lay, that the Papif was his honest Afs, he might lay what load he would upon him, and he would bear it patiently; but the Pref4 bytereas was such a skittish Jade, as he kickt and winc't at the least load laid on him. Certainly if Persecution be not the nighest way to Heaven, he goes the farthest way about; for every one persecutes him, and he bears the burthen of every one: Nor will they allow him the priviledge of Balasms Afs, to speak when he is beaten, but like Horace's, he must onely be patient, and shake his ears. Mean time, he bears the faults of every one; and as * one faid wittily, They rail at * The Affembly Popery; when the Land is almost man, pag. 18. loft in Presbytery; and cry out Fire, fire, in Noahs Flood. And though the wifer fort perceive their cunning in't, to finde fault first, when they are faulty themselves, yet the ignoront are cheated with it, who still chink think those most faulty, who are most cryed out upon, and take the poor As for some terrible monster of the Sea of Rome, (as the Major of Huntington did a Colt for a Sturgeon) whilst others know, he is a good honest Asi, who never fail'd his Master in time of need, as most of those who rail on him have done. In fine, all I will say of him is this, he is a scrupulous Asi, he is a patient Asi, and your French Asi would never bear half so much, not of the Pope himself.

Character 65.

Of a Physician.

BY Sin Sickness first entred into the world, and by Sickness Death and the Physician; behold how some derive his Pedigree. Others say, that as Laws beget Abuses, and Lawsers Processes, so Physicians do Sicknesses and Maledies. Certain 'tis, he and Death are but Conzen Germans once remov'd, and both of the same Trade and Occupation of killing men, how

n.

ie wkft

n

9

1- IC #11 k

however (by corruption of the Judge) the Phylician' scapes, and Death is condemned for it. Another reason why Physician never yet held up his hand at the Bar for killing Patient, is because the Crowners Quest finde it felf-inurder in those who take Physick of them. They do more harm then good in the world (certainly) for alf his faying, that did nor Phyficians kill men fo fast as they'do, the world wo'd be too full of them; and who fay we must honour Physicians for necessity, mean onely that they are neceffary Evils, against whom David prayed infallibly, when he defir'd to be deliver'd from his Necessities. And for my part, as 'tis faid, Necessity has no Law, fo I could wish it had no Phylicians too, for fo we shu'd have no Difeafes, or at least be rid of thêm, the greatest Difease of all.

But all this now is to be understood not of our English, but the Physicians here, who with their fix penny Fees have Skill accordingly, whilst ours with their Golden Fees have Golden Skill, and therefore we honour them: whilst here your poor Signieur Dostore, is alwayes beaten, and made the ridiculous subject of every Farfe.

or

ıt,

do ly)

in-

om

id,

no oif-

eft

of

ich

ly:

ol-

m:

ha-

onely follows the reflection we have send dayes, and sen other 60 reflections there are none cruly fay in these dead rimes, there are none

Of an English Merchant i resident

the is the Honour of his Mation abroad and alexandrate with the service had some characters and the service had a service had a

But now you multimeed! The is one who goes abroad with a flock of Houser as well-se Meney to traffick with, and makes a brave rounn lof either. He is a Mafter and not a Stave to Wealth, and fuch a Mafter as puts it onely to poblet ulas cheither Ricking at trivial expence nor gain.) He anticipates not powerty a for fear of being poor, (like those who kill themselves for fear of death) nor accelerates it with vain glory of appearing rich, (like those who guild over ruinous Palaces) but whilft he neither starves the Channel with penuriousness, nor exhausts the Spring with prodigality, ha's the art to keep the Stream still running, and the Fount still full; fo as look in his Ware-house, and you finde him a wealthy Merchant, in all the rest of his House a noble Gentleman, and he

H 2

one-

onely follows his profit on writing dayes, and on all other days his pleafure, &c. So as we may truly fay in these dead times, there are none live but he; who whissit your landed men are outed of all they have, as long as the Sea is open, is sure of his coming in. To conclude he is the Honour of his Nation abroad; and his Nation shuld be most ungrateful, shuld it not alwayes honour him.

But now you must understand, I speak of such an one, as either lives where they precede to the Universal Monarchy at this day, or else where they had it in some times; and not of those penurious ones, who live in your colder Climates nigher home, betwixt whom and him there is as much difference, as betwixt them and your Scotch Pedlars.

Particle of with vain glory of the control of the c and the majority of the sea 1, 1 %

Charles and the low of the low of

Character 67.

Of a timerous Disposition.

iy ie

is le

of ider ider in

Made Anno 1657.

HE is onely for facile and easie things?

And if you employ him not in what he is good for, he is good for nothing. He is as unfit for dangerous Negotiations, as a London Wherry for an East India Voyage, and dares not offend the present Authority for his life. He is not Cavalter enough, to understand your Gallantry of dying ; nor Divine, nor Philasapher enough, to know what good he can do when he is dead. Like the flaville Americans, he offers as much Incense to those who may harm him, as those who can do him good. Mean time, facrificing more out of Fear then Love, he is but half an Idolater at leaft. Whence in times of Trouble and Perfecution, he pretends not fo much to Merit as Excuse; and though he be far from a Rubrick Saint himself, yet at least he honours those who are; and hopes to be faved by others merits, though not his own, amongft H 3

Amenditall.

amongst the common fort of Christians; who when any storms of perfectition rife, will be fure, which way soever the winde does blow, to keep on the windy side of danger still.

Scal enth Soul

Character 68 a IL

th

te

h

and bus seems England as for under

not offend the 1201 dink shame for his life.

He is a Fellow, who with ill cloathes, and worse meen comes over into fing land, and there sets up a Court of Judicature, air a going our Milick, Instruments, and Musicians here, for not being a la mode de France, and almost the Hands too, for not being manete about the Wrists like his. Especially, he cannot away with the double Neck, and twelve ranks of strings upon the Lute, (though far more case and commodions) because it is not of their invention. If his singers be so weak, they can scarce crawle over a Lute, then to play gently gently and foftly is the mode, & doucement is the word , and if they be to gouty and chilblain'd, as they rake the strings worse then if they were grated on with a ragged staff, then strong and luky is the mode, and fort and gallyard is the word agen: If you like not his play, he tells you he ha's at least the new method of Pering and that he ceaches a danit of bion pareille; and for his Pieces, (though rak't lout of Guariers Dunghil, or collected from the Privyhouse of Defaut) he keeps them as precious Relignes, and gives out fuch for new, as were made before the Maignon, or the Popes coating there. In fine, he is the Mountehalknof himfelf, and though he has nothing to commend him befides himfelf, and the being Frenth (for which reason you may commend alle For the well) yet your English are to footish to altmire him nor will it ever be otherwise will some fuch zealous Patrior rife up againth them, as he, who hearing them talk of the Trench Pacy bid them call it the Englab, with a Pok to them, for we had as good as the French had any to

to light. For your Chamber, it feems the fracgare by the pillars of the bed, with a Tradical habeart, as if it is from you. I am have righter habeart, as and for home early lice towns as and genrivard for in the ment of the west is the west of the west in the state of the s

Of an English Inne. O DE Made Anno 1654.

tells von hand's at feat the new method of N English Inne is a Honse of to ancient A flanding, as 'tis ready to fall down agen? onely its Sign poaft is new, and in that confifts its greateft Gallantry. Within tis a great Machin of four wheels, Ofter, Cook, Tapfter, and Chamberlain, with mine Houft and Houfis, the main Springs that move all the reft. Being entred, they all fall to couzening you in their feverall Vocations the ofter your Horfes, the reft you, the Cook with meat fo tough and raw roulted, as spite of your teeth ware forc'e to leave it to the house, the Tapfer in to miscounting his stone Juggs, as you may as well count the Stoneage as them; then the Chamberlain uses fuch conzenage with his Faggots, as the fire it felf can scarcely bring to light. For your Chamber, it feems the Prefyard by the pillars of the bed, with a Teaftern To heavy, as if it fall on you, Lord have mercy upon you, and for more exquisite torment and lin20

13

lingring pain; you have a heavy Tapeftry for Coverlet, in Summer kells you with heat, and in Winter with cold as well as weight; with a Feather-bed, whose feathers (as if you flounc't into the water) part on either fide, and leave you in the midft to fink unto the bottom. For mine Hoaft and Hoaft's, who were wont to be good fellows in the dayes of jollity, their humours are fooildin this time of godlings and Rumm'd Sack and Religion ha's quite band their mirth onely mine Hoaf shill make a thifth Hill to be half drunk every day, and on Market deser out-right when he is wonderous kindes and his kindeness chiefly consists in a pine of fack to the Mafter, and a double Jug uproche Servingman, alwayes in order to the Rockes ing, which as a Warning piece being diffe charged once, there follows a whole vollay of Welcomes, like imall those discharg'd on every fide, and you are discharged too. no fine vois conwe sales when they can conwollt advance. His Mule is none of the living but a Mangril of By the single and an armit her Beauty is rarked Sophistical about the bate many of the contract of montract

Physical Canting and Physical Pictors of the surre

Winter with whole feathers (as it you follows:

and be Of a Chymerical Poet, and dans

ed on how at Made in Africk.bns fant -min good sollows in the Trees of jollicy, their bu TIT Fithhis monftrous Smile's and Hyperbole's he is like a Painter, who makes onely Chimerals and Groce plan work, whill others Pigures are natural, and colthe life; by feeling out new wayes, he miffakes the way to melbon, and lofer himself by going out of the common Road diffe is like Statism on his great Horfe, how on the top, now on the bottom of Parnafin, and ha's not are enough to Recp him to a conftant pace. His Conceits come acrofs from him, and flick by the way and his many Parent before are but like the boggling of refty Jades, when they can't or wo'nt advance. His Muje is none of the Nine, but a Mungril or By-blow of Parnassus; and her Beauty, is rather Sophistical then natural. He offers at Learning and Philosophy, as Pullen and Stubble-Geefe offer to flye, and presently come fluttering down agen. His high high-formding Words and Veries are bith like empty Tunns or Hops-heads, which make the greater found the emptier they are. A long while some admir d him, became they understood him not, and for the fame reafon he admir d himself. But now they have found out the Cheat, its thought Larke site will be his, who for flying too high, came to be drowned at last, and he had find long fince, had not fome like bladders biloyd him the will him faster then heavy bodies fast unto the Center.

161

Prince nor wer wishout force flur to be bin i fo as a sweing Sparated with this at to, Said me yalth does on what will ye

give me, w.17 eratacter

Of a too ordinary Courter.

to had made at Lisbonin Portugal aid ad

Behiles file own, he has the Fasters Office too, and by it a double priviledge, to fay what he list, and not to be whipe for a when Anjgmaticall.

when h'as done. He is a perpetual Likel, in the Court, of others, and to others, of the Cours ; and they repeat but his bold fpeeches, when they would speak ill of it. His railing differs as much from Raillery, as Butchers playing at Cudgels does from Gantlemens playing at Foyles; and he's worfe then dretin, who demanded why he spoke not ill of God, (lince he spoke all of every one) answered, Poretie no l'agnasie, bécause I know him not, for he speaks ill as well of those he knows not, as those he knows) and if Balbfalnels and Modefy be a Vertue in the Countrey. but a Vice in Court, 'tis the onely Vice he's free from; for he is never from about the Prince nor ever without fome fuit to beg of him; fo as a fawning Spanniel with this Morto. Quid me vultu dare? or what will vou give me, wo'd be the right Embleme of him, Though he gets more then he defenses, por he is alwayes complaining, and thinks he gets not fo much as he deferves; when had he his deferts, he shu'd be banished the Court, fince if it be a Heaven or Firmament where the Prince is the Sun, and other Courtiers bright Stars of feveral Magnitudes, he is a dark Cloud that obscures all the 1344

the reft, and the Court word thine far brighter, were he away.

course do lo sal mdo no

Character 72.

Of one who troubles her self with everything.

HEr minde is just like their Scornacks, who convert all the adurishment they take, anto Difeases,; for every thing is matter of trouble with her, and not contented with her own, the troubles her self with those of others too, and will go a thousand miles out of her way to seek it, if she finde none nigher hand. She is perpetually haunted with a panick sear of, Oh what will become of us! Go, and the stories of Apparitions in the Air, and Prognosticks of extraordinary accidents to happen in the year 66. (when perhaps its nothing but the extraordinary gingle of numbers) makes her almost out of her wits agen. She troubles her self besides with

As migmaticall

conditionary choughts of things that ne're were, nor are, nor are like to be a and for her own bufiness, the makes such work of it, as what betwixt doing and undoing it, like Penelope's web, the never makes an end, (nor can any elfe for her at last, she so intangles it) and all this onely for want of knowing how much care and thought the is to bestow on things. Whence bestowing all the ha's on every thing, as long as there's a world, or the is in the world, her eare mult needs be infinite and immenfe. To conclude, her minde feems nothing elfe but an Hopkal of fick and difeafed thoughts. fo throng'd and peffec'd with 'am, as there's no room for any healthy ones. Whence her preposterous lodging, all her care and solicitude within doors, and her comfort all without the is to unfortunate, to have the one still at hand when the needs it leaft; and c'other ftill to feek, when the ha's most need of it. of the second Present do

OF STORY OF A TO SCHOOL WITH

Aft there are almost oct or her with agency of her with

Cha-

Characters

Character 73:

Of one who troubles bimself with nothing.

HE thanks God for giving him fuch a minde, as he neither cares for what he cannot have, nor fearce for any thing others can deprive him of. He places all his contentment within himfelf; and fuffers nothing without to trouble him. He counts it folly to grieve and forrow for any thing but our fins, fince grief and forrow can remedy nothing elfe. He loves easie Company as he does easie Garments, and throws off either when they pain and trouble him. He fo loves his Liberty, as he won't be Slave to any, much less to his own Passions, (to have his minde free at least, and not still carry his master along with him.) Even in Friendship he takes the more delightful part, and leaves the more troublesome of Adieus and condoling, and the like, and fo bates to be in debt, as he loves not to be too much oblig'd by any one. He avoids all bigb water of the vulgar, and by-wayes in Religion, not to erre in Faith nor Opinion, and strives so to live in this life, as he may have no fear of the other when he comes to dye. To enjoy its pleasures more purely, he willingly relinquishes all the honours and profit of this world; living neither in the higher Region of the Air, where storms and tempests are ingendred; nor in the lawer, where they are most subject to them; but in the middle, where all is quiet and tranquise. So lives he in this world, as if he were out of it, enjoying all its innocent pleasures, and for the rest

Auigmaticall.

They have most pleasure who enjoy them least.

Character 74.

Of a Jovial Old Nobleman.

U Nder whatsoever Constellation he was born, he is all Jovial, when others are Saturnine; and no man was ever more beholding then he to Nature, who even in old Age has given him the spirit and vigour of Touth; and is so feard he shu'd be ever wholly old, as fhe fill.

Staid doir
with wor layin ther
the their

form mon & g

the

be two

Tr.

f

the gives him a youthful minde in an aged body Still. He is the Scharamacchio of Court and State, and is a Statefman and Courtier travefty; doing more bufinels with trifling, then others with their feriousness; and his Grimaces are more worth then all their Gravity ; for whilft they by laying open fiege, but allarum men, and put them on their defence, he by intelligence with the humours of every one, fuddenly enters their bosoms, and takes them by surprize. He knows (o, how to multiply himself, as he is all to all, and all to every one; especially among the Ladies he has Kindred and Affinity with every one; and he'l call an old Lady of fourfcore, Wife or Daughter; and a young one of fourteen, Mother or Grandmother, (onely to be more merry and facetions) He comes in finging, & goes out dancing still; so as 'tis impossible to be melancholly where he is; and even Heraclitw in his company cu'd not without faughter pals o're this vale of tears. In fine, he is the Democratu of the Age, and whilft others all Tragedies of Trage-Comedies on the Theatre of the world, he onely acts Farfes and Comedies whilft he lives; and when he dyes, they thu'd onely write bene peratta fabula, he play'd his part well, on his Tomb for Epuaph.

bus wes Character 75.

Of an old Ludy, who hoke

Under the name of Mifa.

Now what a Devil, Mila, makes
The with such Exes behold me fill?
Cause from thee Thic thy good looks takes,
Mult I needs theraffie have thy ill?

I presher Mila don't chole.

Me thus, a if I were thy foe,

FAP honforver that are old,

I am not Time that made thee fo.

And rather then to quarrel with me,
As if there I had done the wrong,
Go quarrel with thy Age I preshee.
Whose faulth in thou has lived to long.

Howeve for me thou well mayest have Thy Anger, and thy Frowns may dase;
Who for thy good looks little care,
Do's for thy bad ones care much less.

An-

Charasters

Character 76.

Les Autumn paint ber withered leaves, and Winter die bis snow Haife and leaves.
That be's a Fool that not perceives, the That both but counterfeited are if a 200 months.

So whilf you'l needs look joung again,
And fill feen fair nate our fighe;
Mila, your labour's offin vain.
Like bu, no'd melhane Ethiopo white

Nature by Art is best made and a second that while Art has grean for what is does a sound But when the Colombia work worke decay and have all Art but a deformed hours.

Who looks well in King James bo Reign of And in Hing Charles his old appear d, Wilhhards and look young agein, When the Commonwealth hanger a Bourd.

Then Mila, follow my advice,
Amb leaving off thy bootlefs sure,
Stripe rather to win Hearts them Eyes,
And to appear more Good then Fair.

116

Character 77.

Of a Valiant Man.

Ex A promy paint her with red HE is only a Man, your Comard, but a Tame and raft, a milde and Javage Beaft. His Courage is still the fame, and drink cannot make him more valiant, nor danger less. His Sword is not alwayes out, like Childrens Daggers, but he is as feard to enter into quarrels, as he is fearless when he is in them once. He is never in pathon, and knows no degree beyond clear Courage, being alwayes valiant, but never furious. He holds Boaff (the Cowards valour) and Cruelty (the beafts) unworthy a valiant man; and is onely Coward in this, that he dares not do an unhandsome action. He is neither quarrelfome nor querulous, nor forwards in barming, nor roo fearful in being barm'd, but his Sword in War, is the fame as Juftice's Ballance is in Peace. The more fierce he is in the Field, the more gripele he is in the Chamber and he is not all out fide, like those Souldiers who are nothing but Buff and Feather, but he ha's the infide of a Seuldier, with the outfide of a Courtier, and is as gallant amongst the Ladies, as in the face of an Enemy: they well therefore joyned Mars and Venus together, for t'one is too harsh and rough, t'other too fost and Esseminate; both together make the best Composition of a Valiant man.

Characters.

Of Mrs Stuart.

Tuart a Royal Name chat springs
From Race of Calidonian Kings;
Whose Composition and fair Frame
Addes benout to the Royal Name:
What praises can Underthy finde;
To celebrate thy Form and Minde?
The greatest power that is in Earth,
Is given to Princes by their Birth;
But there's no pom'r in Earth nor Heaven
Maragreat then what's to Beauty given:
That makes not onely men relent.
When unto Rage and Fury bent;

B

Anigmaticall, &c.

Lious come and Tygeri milde; in 2 5 70

Al second frame heir Broads skilles contact

Such anders ger chald now be long of encloseds

By Badrie's fines and force to board I had all

Of excellent Goodmals aides total morn of ited

For just as Diamonds we be bold

More brightly thine when set in Gold:

So Beauty shines far brighter yet,

In Vertue and in Goodness set.

Continue then have hat you ate,

So admirably Good and Fair;

Let Princes by their Berth-rights swot,

Tou'l have a Bow'r as great as they

I represent this Lady openly, and without Engma incerner Beauty is to bright, and Vertue's to transparent, as they cannot be shad down nor over-coulded, and with her conclude these Characters, these I cannot conclude them with a fairer Subject.

FINIS.

To ben come Rage and Fary bent :

the for for bet

adi de

XUM